Two School Board Members Beaten As Butler Pupils Strike Following 'Ouster'

Pupil Protest Sets Off Melee

School Officials Dragged From Truck, One Hit With Hammer, as Disorders Follow Suspension of Weekley.

By ALVIN L. KRIEG
(News-Journal Staff Writer)

A dispute revolving around the head of Willard S. Weekley, superintendent of schools at nearby Butler, flared into open fighting this morning when more than 250 of the school's 500 pupils started a protest strike and two school board members were beaten up in the wild demonstration that ensued.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and two deputies, Glenn Freeman and G. C. Humphrey, quelled the fighting, which gave promise of developing into a first class battle, and prevented new outbreaks of disorder.

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, promptly ordered the school closed pending final decision of "misconduct" charges brought against Weekly, which resulted in his suspension Wednesday night.

The school board will meet at the school tomorrow night to plan its next step.

The situation precipitated by Weekly's suspension Wednesday evening broke out this morning when between 250 and 300 pupils assembled on the steps of the school and began a constant shout, "We Want Weekley."

The demonstration apparently had been planned in advance, because scores of the students carried placards proclaiming "We Want Weekly."

The fighting developed, according to witnesses, when two school board members, Kinsey Morgan and Rubert Roberts, arrived on the scene. The pupils themselves did not participate in the fighting witnesses said.

Morgan and Roberts told a News-Journal reporter they had come to the school when they heard of the strike to plead with pupils to return to their classes until the situation was settled. Upon their arrival at the scene, they said, they were dragged from the truck in which they were riding by a group of 10 or 12 men who were standing on the fringe of the crowd.

"The men knocked me down and one of them hit me with a hammer, over the face and back," Roberts said. "Then Morgan took the hammer away from him, and went to the car. The gang pulled him out of the machine, took the hammer away from him, and knocked him down in a muddy ditch and beat and kicked him."

Morgan corroborated Roberts'

NEW OUTBREAK

3 Diphtheria Cases In County, Commisioner Reports.

Diphtheria, which had subsided following a late 1941 outbreak in at least 25 Mansfield and Richland county homes, returned today with three new cases and four proven carriers being reported.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, reported that the new cases had been reported from the north-central part of the county, the same section where most of last year's cases broke out.

The health commissioner said that the vicinity was being checked for the possibility of a carrier who unwittingly has been spreading the disease. He also urged all parents to have their children vaccinated for protection against the disease. Dr. Wild warned that even after anti-toxin has been administered to prevent the disease's progress, vaccination should be given later.

CHECK COUNTY FOR CAMP SITE

Army, Searching For Land To Quarter 15,000 Men, Looks Over Prospects Here.

The U. S. army is studying the Richland county area as a possible site for an army replacement depot which would house approximately 15,000 men, it was learned today.

Five army men whose names were not revealed conferred yesterday with County Engineer Howard Sword and his staff on the county's topography, explaining that they were seeking a satisfactory site in this section of Ohio.

The men said the site must contain at least 640 acres in level country, it must be near a major highway and railroad, and have an adequate water supply.

It was believed that the army turned to northern Ohio for a prospective camp site after temporarily abandoning plans for a camp at Chillicothe.

Deputy County Engineer W. E. Rusk, who conferred with the army officials yesterday, pointed out that the absence of an adequate water supply would be the greatest obstacle in the path of establishing a training center or depot in the county.

He said that section of the county west and northwest of Mansfield would afford ample space and transportation facilities for a camp, but the water supply problem would have to be solved.

The delegation compiled data on the county area and left the city last night; it was understood, without commenting on the chances for a camp here.

$100,000,000 VOTED FOR AIR PROTECTION

House Committee Warned By La Guardia Surprise Raids on U. S. Due.

GAS MASKS NEEDED

Defense Director Urges New Head For OCD After Bill Passes.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Warned by Civilian Defense Director F. H. La Guardia that American cities "may expect short, sporadic surprise air attacks from which we are going to suffer heavy losses," the house appropriations committee today approved a bill providing $100,000,000 for air raid protection.

Altogether the measure calls for $160,590,611, most of the balance going to aid the public health service in its fight against social diseases in the armed forces, to strengthen the federal bureau of investigation's anti-espionage activities, to increase training of war workers, and to facilitate removal of Americans from the war zones.

In speeding the bill to the floor, the committee bolstered La Guardia's testimony by formally reporting that "enemy air raids on continental United States are to be expected" and declared that present provisions for gas masks for the civilian population "inadequate."

In addition the committee made public hearings on the bill in which La Guardia, speaking of civilian defenses, frankly said that "we are in a bad fix right now and will be for several months." These hearings also disclosed:

1. A promise by La Guardia, that as soon as the bill is finally approved, he will devote full time to his job as mayor of New York, coupled with his recommendation that Maj. Gen. L. D. Gasser, now attached to OCD, "take complete charge of the protective side of OCD."

2. A warning by Surgeon General Thomas Parran that "tradi-

CROWD STORES

Shoppers Open Mansfield's Bargain Days Today.

Hundreds of shoppers crowded downtown Mansfield stores today for the opening of the two-day Community Bargain Days event sponsored by the Retail Merchants association.

The bargain days, a semi-annual event, provide a "good opportunity for people to buy merchandise in the face of war conditions," V. H. Lodde, secretary of the association said, indicating that hundreds more will take advantage of the sale tomorrow, the final day.

Shoppers today were accommodated with free bus rides to the downtown areas on the 11 buses in operation by the Rapid Transit company which gave free service from 9 a. m. to 11:15 a. m.

Fifty-five Mansfield stores are participating in the Community Bargain days.

U. S. Artillery Thwarts Attack On Corregidor

Destroys Emplacements on Manila Bay; War Department Reveals Nine Enemy Transports Land Reinforcements At Lingayen Gulf Ports.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Japanese gun emplacements on the southeastern shore of Manila bay, apparently designed for an attack on the fortress of Corregidor, have been destroyed by artillery fire from American fortifications.

The war department, announcing this today, also reported in a communique that nine Japanese transports were debarking troops at the ports in Lingayen gulf, approximately 125 miles north of Manila bay, to reinforce the large enemy concentrations already in Batan peninsula and other parts of the island of Luzon.

The Batan front, the department said, was relatively quiet in the past twenty-four hours, with decreasing enemy bombing attacks, which resulted in no damage.

The text of the communique, No. 93, of the war, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m., EST, today:

"1. Philippine theater:

"Japanese gun emplacements on the southeastern shore of Manila bay were destroyed by fire from our fortifications. These artillery positions were presumably designed by the enemy for an attack against Corregidor.

"Nine Japanese transports are at ports in Lingayen gulf, debarking troops to reinforce the already very large enemy concentrations in Batan and other points on the island of Luzon.

"Relative quiet continued all along the front in Batan during the past twenty-four hours. Enemy aerial bombing attacks on our troops positions, which began early in the day, decreased later on. They resulted in no damage. Intermittent artillery fire flared up in the center. There was some increase in patrol operations in this same general area.

2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

Sentinels Watch For Thrust at Singapore

SINGAPORE —(AP)— Amid the thunder of heavy mortars, cannon and aerial bombs, interspersed by the chatter of machine-guns, sharp-eyed sentinels kept roving watch today for the inevitable Japanese assault by parachutists or water-borne shock troops against this island citadel.

On an extended tour of positions along the water no-man's-land of Johore strait, this correspondent found tens of thousands of British, Australian and Indian soldiers manning the beaches, inlets, swamps and rubber plantations fronting on the Japanese mainland concentration points.

Patrols worked constantly up and down the creekmouths which cut into the north shore of Singapore Island, within rifle shot of Japanese positions across the strait, where at any hour the Japanese might try to throw a bridge of boats and men. In other vantage spots stationary lookouts kept on guard for parachutists.

RE-CAP: Situation 'Serious' After Two Months of Jap War

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Military and naval experts asserted today that the situation of Allied forces in the western Pacific at the end of the second month of war was very serious and that still further reverses could be expected.

While fully recognizing the heroic achievements of defenders in the Philippines, Singapore and the Dutch Indies, and allowing for Japanese losses of more than 100 ships and thousands of men, these authorities grimly declared that only the delivery of huge reinforcements—difficult if not impossible at this time—would turn the tide of battle against the enemy.

The Japanese were said still to possess the great advantages of time and initiative seized in their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, two months ago tomorrow. Theirs is the choice of when and where to attack, and the costs they are paying in troops and material were described as not too great for the advances they have made.

Effective reinforcements, especially in war planes, could block further advances and hold the threatened bastions still in Allied hands, it was said, for the Japanese position has become vulnerable at many points.

But America's great striking power is still largely in the factories and training camps. And the materiel now ready for the fighting fronts must be divided among England, Russia and Africa as well as the Orient and transported with naval protection over thousands of miles of dangerous ocean.

As strategists here view the enemy gains in two months of incessant action, the Japanese have:

1. Prevented offensive use of the Pacific fleet for many weeks by the raid on Pearl Harbor.

2. Forced the Asiatic fleet to

PINCHED: German Air Force Calls on Italians for Help

(By Associated Press)

Germany's famed air force, the instrument that pulverized resistance in Belgium, Holland and France, has called on Italian warplanes for help in the battle with Russia, it was disclosed today by the Nazi high command.

The disclosure coincided with an announcement that Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the German air force, had just completed a visit to Italy.

"In fighting yesterday against the Soviet air force, in which the Italian air force took part, 38 enemy planes were shot down or destroyed on the ground," a bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters said.

It was the first time Italian planes had been mentioned in action on the Soviet front.

Whether the Germans are suffering a shortage in planes or pilots was not disclosed, but recent Soviet communiques have emphasized heavy German air losses.

Today's Red army bulletin, for example, reported 38 planes destroyed Wednesday against 10 Russian planes missing.

Coincidentally, Germany's Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels acknowledged that considerable dissatisfaction was stirring in the reich over the campaign in Russia and food and fuel shortages at home and exhorted the Germans to maintain "deportment and morale."

On the fighting front, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Ukraine armies were reported to have captured Petropavlovka, 70 miles of

This Change to 'War Time' May Sound Simple, But Have You Stopped to Think What a Mix-Up It Might Cause

You Can Bank On It, There'll Be a Lot of Fuss Monday

There's always a lot of fuss and confusion when part of the country shifts to daylight saving time, but when the whole country is preparing to go to "war time"—

Well, then you've got something.

Some folks say it's simple—but when they start to explain it to the confused brethren, they get mixed up too.

Actually what happens is that the clocks of the country advance one hour automatically at 2 a. m. Monday. That makes it 3 a. m., and right there you're on the new schedule.

Well, that may sound simple, but—

Suppose you are a factory worker, supposed to report for work at midnight Sunday and quit at 8 a. m. Monday. As soon as it's 2 a. m. Monday, it becomes 3. So when the clock says 8, you've only worked seven hours, instead of the scheduled eigh..

Do you get paid for seven—all you've worked—will you expect the company to pay you for eight?

And if you do work eight (which would make your quitting time 9 a. m. on that day, instead of 8) what about the fellow on the day trick who reports at 8 a. m.? Does he just stand around for an hour?

That's only one of the problems.

Train Riders, Night Club Patrons Face Puzzle Monday

Take a night club, closing at 2:30 a. m. On Monday at 2 a. m., the clocks move to 3. Does the night club have to close at 2, and miss that last half hour's business? Or will it be permitted to stay open until 3:30 a. m.?

See how it goes?

'OUSTER' SETS OFF MELEE AT BUTLER SCHOOL

Two Board Members Beaten In Disorders Following Strike By Pupils.

story. Both men remained on the scene after the sheriff and deputies arrived.

Some time later, Ivan Gower, president of the board, arrived on the scene Meanwhile, however, Sheriff Robinson had contacted Superintendent Robinson, who promptly ordered the school closed. The sheriff sent for drivers of the school buses that were assembled outside the school to return the pupils to their homes.

Approximately 100 pupils, all in the first three primary grades, which are in the older of the two [illegible] the school property, [illegible] classrooms this morning [illegible] in the four other primary [illegible] in the old building, and [illegible] the eighth grade and high [illegible] students who attend [illegible] an $85,000 three-year-old [illegible] participated in the strike and demonstrations. Between 200 and 150 pupils went back to their homes without joining the strike, witnesses said.

An account of the strike and students' reasons for it was given to The News-Journal by Betty Beckett, 16, a junior, who said she was one of the four girls who arrived at the school first this morning

"We talked about starting a protest strike yesterday after we heard of Mr. Weekley's suspension," Betty said. "Then we learned that if we walked out of school, at the time we were under the jurisdiction of school authorities, we could all be expelled.

"So we all decided to start the strike this morning, so, we made the posters yesterday and last night, and we were all set this morning

"I was one of the first four there. The others were Marjorie Dauby, Janice Webber, and June Miller, all 16 Then two of the boys arrived. They were Rex Taylor and Junior Pritchard, both 17

"The students are all against the school board, and for Mr. Weekley," Betty declared. "He gave us this fine new school—it's the best school in the county"

Weekley has 10 days in which to file his reply to the charges brought against him. After receiving his answer to his accusations, the board will set a date within 15 to 30 days for a hearing. It was uncertain today whether the school will remain closed until that time but it was believed some decision on this point would be reached at the board's meeting tomorrow night

The two other members of the board, Walter Wareham and Wade Forbes, did not appear at the school up to 11:30 a. m. At that time, the pupils still were milling around while they were waiting for the buses to take them to their homes.

Prior to the word from County Superintendent Robinson that the school was to be closed Dr J A Reed, said to be a leader of the group opposing Weekley, arrived at the scene to urge the students to return to their classes His plea was greeted by the chant, "We Want Weekley"

Dr. Reed is hard of hearing, and due to the terrific noise, was unable to hear the questions put to him by a News-Journal reporter Finally, several written questions were presented to him One was: "Did you file the charge against Mr Weekley?"

"Yes, I felt it my duty as a citizen to do so."

The next question was: "What was the basis of your charge?"

"I'll testify as to that when the time comes," he replied.

The News-Journal reporter was blocked by a milling throng of pupils when he attempted to enter the school building Finally the Beckett girl interceded with the group supporting the reporter's demand that he be allowed to enter the building to interview Weekley Finally the shouting subsided, and the reporter entered with Betty leading the way

Weekley's statement to The News-Journal was

"I have been conducting myself like a gentleman in every respect These charges are false and unfair I am preparing my detailed reply to the board, and I'm certainly going to stand my ground"

Weekley is 35, has been engaged in teaching and school administration for 17 years He has been superintendent at Butler for five years, first on a one-year contract then on a three-year term, and finally, a year ago he was re-hired for four years

Two new school board members were elected last fall

Morgan and Roberts said they knew the identity of all the men who attacked them, but said they would not prosecute them Most of the group, the school board members said, do not have children in school

BATTLE LOOMS OVER TAX MOVIE

Congressmen Object To Payment of $80,000 for Picture Short.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The government wants to pay $80,000 for a motion picture short by Walt Disney depicting the necessity for paying income taxes this year, but there is bitter objection by some congressmen.

That was disclosed today as the house appropriations committee made public hearings in which treasury officials discussed the picture.

"Why do you need a moving picture to be tossed around?" Rep. Taber (R., N. Y.) asked. "People have to pay taxes anyway—all this will do is disgust them when they see where our money is going."

tionally venereal diseases have become epidemic in war time," that the scourge "is increasing at an alarming rate in boom towns," and that it is "still the largest cause of non-effectiveness in our military service."

3. Testimony of Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI that he "sees good arguments for universal fingerprinting" in this country, after he told the committee that eight per cent of applicants checked for work in war industries turned out to have past police records.

4. Statements by officials of the state department that there are 35,000 Americans in Europe and thousands more in the Orient—including 3,500 in Shanghai alone—who are "very much in economic jeopardy because their means of earning a living has been removed." These officials said that to date no plan has yet been worked out to get them home.

5 Testimony of Dr. John W. Studebaker, commissioner of education, that to the 5,000,000 now employed as war workers, 10,000,000 more will be added by the end of the year—6,000,000 from those working in non-war industries, and 4,000,000 from the unemployed.

6. Testimony by Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, director of the mint, that $2,200,000,000 worth of gold will soon be moved from New York to Fort Knox, Ky., and $800,000,000 in gold from San Francisco to Denver. Librarian of Congress Archibald MacLeish said that to date 15,000 cubic feet of valuable documents and other treasures already have been moved to secret inland storage places, and tht 50,000 cubic feet more will soon be moved.

The $100,000,000 carried in the bill for OCD is for the purchase of fire fighting equipment, uniforms for air wardens, gas masks, and other material for air raid protection.

INDUSTRIES GET BIDS FROM CITY

Approximately 125 manufacturers from the Mansfield area, today had been invited to inspect war production products which will be brought to Mansfield Monday in two large trailer trucks.

The parts are needed for Naval ordnance work and are being displayed by contractors who wish to give sub-contracts to local manufacturers able to produce them.

The trailer trucks will be parked in front of the Mansfield-Leland hotel on Park avenue west where representatives of local industries may confer with Navy officials and engineers about the specifications for each product.

John G Roulzon, secretary of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, said today that his office had forwarded to all local manufacturers a request from C. R. Terry, state director of the WPB contract distribution division, that they make every effort to visit the trailers.

Mansfield will be the first city to see the trailers and the specifications for needed defense parts. Other Ohio manufacturers will inspect them as the trucks carry out a four-week tour of 25 cities in the state.

Navy representatives and field engineers will be on hand Monday to interview and discuss ways and means for manufacturers to get into war work.

R. B. Applegate, WPB representative, is traveling in advance of the trucks making arrangements for their stay. He has already contacted Capt. Glenn L. Bierly of Company F, Ohio State Guard, to have a military guard placed around the trucks at the armory where they will be parked Sunday night.

The similarity of the present situation to that of Crete—with the proximity of the foe emphasizing the danger a hundredfold—has impressed the threat of "vertical envelopment "on Singapore's defenders.

But the British imperials no longer will be taken by surprise. Special attention is being given to the parachute threat.

Singapore had four air raid alarms before 9 a. m. today. Bombs were dropped during the first three alerts but hurricane fighters evidently drove off the fourth wave before its racks could be emptied.

Today rounded out the first full week of Japanese siege. By and large the battle of Singapore now has become a waiting game.

BATAVIA — (INS) — Japanese occupation of the town of Samarinda on the east coast of Dutch Borneo, was announced today by the Netherlands Indies high command.

No details of the occupation were announced. Samarinda is situated about 60 miles north of the oil port of Balik Papan.

Meanwhile, there was no further word from Ambonia, where the second largest naval base in the N. E. I. is located.

Japanese troops are known to have landed there from a large convoy several days ago. Latest dispatches day before yesterday said that heavy fighting was in progress and since then communication has ceased, leading to fears the base may have passed into enemy hands.

Samarinda is an important oil and coal district.

It lies at the mouth of the Kutai river and before the war had a population of about 12,000, including 300 Europeans.

Many non-essential civilians had been evacuated from the town.

withdraw from its Philippine bases and pushed the American defense forces on the island into a last ditch stand on Batan peninsula and in the forts covering Manila bay.

3. Completely overrun the Malay peninsula and put the British base of Singapore under siege with overwhelming forces after having destroyed the mainstays of British naval power in the Orient—the battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse.

4. Made landings at various points in the Dutch East Indies so that without waiting for the fall of either the Philippines or Singapore they are already able to bomb such Dutch bases as Soerabaya, on which effective defense of the Indies depend.

5. Captured Moulmein and advanced toward the Burma road, threatening to cut the artery on which China depends for the lend-lease munitions she needs to continue the war.

Despite these spectacular successes, which have required the transportation of troops and supplies more than 2,000 miles from Japan, the enemy forces have shown no sign of slowing down or of encountering opposition which their audacious strategy had not provided for.

The more pessimistic among Washington observers fear that this means various Allied strong points will be lost, the Indies jeopardized and possibly overrun and even Australia directly and forcefully attacked.

Yet none doubts that in the long run the weaknesses in [illegible] in Japan's military and naval position will crack under the growing power of Allied, and especially American, forces.

BOOK RECOUNTS MARKET CRASH, BLOOD PURGE

'Dragon's Teeth' By Sinclair Lewis Among New Volumes at City Library.

Sinclair Lewis covers the period embracing the Wall street crash of 1929 to the Nazi blood purge of 1934 in his book "Dragon's Teeth", now among the new titles at the Mansfield Public Library.

The story involves the further fates of many characters who appeared in two other Lewis books, "World's End" and "Between Two Worlds," and is said to move with a speed unequalled by its forerunners.

Like "Rebecca" and "Jamaica Inn," Daphne DuMaurier's new novel, FRENCHMAN'S CREEK, has for its setting the romantic and mysterious part of England, the coast of Cornwall during the reign of impetuous Charles II. The novel recounts the story of rebellious Lady Dona St. Columb, darling of the Count of St. James, and Jean-Benoit Aubrey, pirate and dilettante of the arts. Here is an exciting romance, well told and peopled with memorable characters.

COLUMBUS by Rafael Sabatini is a romantic novel, filled with pomp and pageantry, which recreates the court of Ferdinand and Isabella in the days when Columbus came seeking a sponsor for a new route west to the Indies. In telling of Columbus' passion for Beatriz, a well-born, impoverished and beautiful gypsy dancer, the author has created an alluring love story.

OTHER FICTION: MEDIAEVAL PAGEANT by Reinhard; FIELDS OF PARADISE by Bates; HOT GOLD by Bechdolt.

THE ISLES OF SPICE by Frank Clune is a fascinating, first-hand study of the Dutch East Indies, Indo-China and North Australia. Today the world's attention is focused on this strategic region. The products of its exotic islands are coveted by the East and West alike. This informative book, by a recognized authority, supplies historical backgrounds, and explains the whys and wherefores of many of today's events.

THE LIFE OF MARGARET FULLER by Madeleine Stern is an excellent biographical and critical study of one of America's most interesting women—a woman endowed with an original, superlative mind that assured her active participation in the brilliant literary renaissance of the 19th century.

DOCTOR WOOD by William Seabrook is a biography of one of the most daring and original experimental physicists of our day, and he became—and remains—a kind of imp of the scientific world, with an international reputation for his high spirits and for his refusal to comb his scientific hair. In addition to contributing much in the field of research, sodium lamps, the "electric thaw" and animated cartoons are a few of the things which can trace their origin back to him.

SOMETHING WENT WRONG by Lewis Browne is a swift-moving interpretation of the industrial age, seeking to determine how it went wrong, and why democracy is more greatly threatened now than ever before. The author follows the course of world history from the installation of the first steam engine in 1776 up to the hazardous present.

OTHER NON-FICTION: THE AIR RAID SAFETY MANUAL by Leyson; BOMBS AND BOMBING by Ley; AIR RAID DEFENSE (CIVILIAN) by Wachtel; AIRCRAFT INSTRUMENTS by Irvin; MANUAL FOR EXECUTIVES AND FOREMEN by Schell and Gilmore; A DROP IN THE BUCKET by Follett and Schofield; TESTING AND INSPECTION OF ENGINEERING MATERIALS by Davis and others; YOUR INCOME TAX by Lasser; AIRCRAFT ENGINES OF 1941 by Wilkinson; LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS AND FIREMAN'S MANUAL by Herrick.

Uncertain Destiny + + + + + +

CHAPTER XXVII

She started from her reverie as someone tapped on her door. Steve's voice said curtly, "I'm driving back to Chicago. Can I give you a lift?"

Linda hesitated. She had driven to the farm with Mary and Phil, and only the station wagon was available. She thought suddenly, "Maybe we can talk things over as we drive back to town."

"Thank you," she answered clearly. "I'll be right out."

But while riding back to Chicago, Steve maintained an icy indifference, and Linda sat huddled in her corner of the car, too miserable to break the silence between them. Again and again she opened her lips to protest—to cast her pride to the winds and tell Steve that she loved him; to implore him for another chance. But each time she caught a glimpse of Steve's grim profile her determination crumbled.

Was this the man who had been so gentle, so understanding, Linda wondered sadly. He was like a stranger, engrossed in his own thoughts. Linda blinked back the tears and sat unrelaxed beside him until they had reached the apartment house.

When the roadster came to a stop before the door, Linda turned pathetically.

"You — you're staying here, aren't you, Steve?"

He hesitated. "I'm leaving at midnight for New York. I'll be gone several days."

Then you've agreed to the moving picture contract?" Linda asked eagerly.

Steve nodded. "They called me at the farm to say they had agreed to my price."

"Oh, I'm so glad!" In her happiness for Steve's success Linda had forgotten that she would be gone, soon have no part in his good fortune. "Is it—is it a great deal of money?"

Steve looked at her oddly, his eyes flickering from her flushed face to rest on a far-off object. "I imagine your share will be sufficient for you to live in luxury. That's what you want, isn't it?"

Linda gasped at this new outrage. She knew Steve would never say anything that unkind unless someone had made him believe she was like that—greedy and scheming. And who would be cruel enough to utter such a falsehood — who else stood to profit by making up untruths about Steve's wife, except Brenda Coleman?

Linda shrugged indifferently. "No one likes luxury better than I," she said flippantly. "See you later, Steve."

Tossing restlessly through the night, she tried to think of some way to find out Brenda's plans for the future. Linda's heart ached for Steve. Would Brenda destroy everything that she, Linda, had helped him create—confidence in himself and his future? Or was it possible that Brenda had changed — that she would make Steve happy?

Linda hoped fervently that this was true, although her heart told her relentlessly that Brenda was still willful, still selfish, and would again ruin Steve's life.

With a sinking heart, Linda realized the only course now open to her would be to see Brenda, and plead with her to make Steve happy.

"And if that fails," Linda told herself wearily, "I'll have to give up—to let Steve find out for himself that there can be no happiness with Brenda. But one thing is certain—I'll never marry Greg. I'll never marry again. I couldn't love anyone but Steve . . . ever!"

* * *

When morning came, Linda dressed carefully, determined to see Brenda Coleman before another day had passed. She glanced in the mirror for assurance that her eyes were not swollen by tears. Her suit and furs were chic and lovely. She left the apartment and headed for the hotel where Brenda was staying.

Pausing outside the door of Brenda's expensive suite, Linda drew a long breath. Would Brenda be willing to listen to her? And, if she did, what could Linda say to the former model that would not sound too awkward, too gauche? Brenda was shrewd and quick-witted. She had a way of pouncing on words and by a simple inflection of her voice or a lifted eyebrow giving them a different meaning.

Linda's trembling fingers rapped on the door, and after a long time a petite, satin-clad maid admitted her into a hotel suite she saw only vaguely, because her eyes were blurred by fear. All of the well-chosen words in her carefully-prepared speech she had rehearsed in the taxi as she rode downtown were forgotten.

Then, Brenda's husky voice floated from another room, saying with exaggerated sweetness: "Please come in, Linda."

Linda was nonplussed by this unexpected move. She had not been announced from the desk downstairs. She had not given her name to the maid. How then, did Brenda know it was she who waited anxiously for an interview?

Perplexed and dubious, she walked into the other room and stared in amazement.

Brenda Coleman was lying in a large satin-covered bed, adorned by a profusion of dainty lace and silken pillows. A bed-jacket of fluffy maribou covered her shoulders, and a baby-blue satin ribbon was tied around silky curls.

The walls of the bedroom seemed banked with flowers, roses, masses of them. They filled the air with their heavy sweetness. In that heady atmosphere, Linda felt weak, and her knees shook so that she could scarcely stand. She had expected nothing to compare with this scene of magnificent luxury. Brenda smiled secretively, as though she knew the reason for Linda's amazement.

"I'm just having breakfast," she pointed airily to the breakfast tray over her knees. The dishes were silver-covered. "Won't you join me?"

Linda shook her head uncertainly. She took a chair near the bed and stared at Brenda. In the midst of this luxury, the model looked like a well-fed cat.

"How did you know it was I who was calling?" she blurted out, because silence had become unbearable and Brenda was eyeing her speculatively over her coffee cup.

"I've been expecting you for several days," Brenda replied lazily.

"I—I understand you're free now," Linda went on desperately. "Will you resume your maiden name?"

Brenda smiled faintly. "Temporarily," she said.

Linda winced, knowing what Brenda wanted her to believe. Had it been that obvious, she wondered? Then Brenda began speaking rapidly. Gone was the well-modulated voice, the expression of innocence. Instead, Brenda was completely herself — coarse, ugly.

"I said I'd been expecting you," she said, "and I know why you've come. You never fooled me—not from the first, sister. Just look at you, so sweet and innocent—Steve's little helpmate. What a laugh! Where has it gotten you? Greg wouldn't have you if it hadn't been that Steve struck it rich.

"It didn't take long for you to get wise to which side your bread was buttered on. You found out all you had to do was get a fat share of Steve's money and you could have anything you wanted—even Greg Hollister, if you call that a prize."

"That isn't true!" Linda was on her feet, her face red with anger. "You know it isn't true, even when you're trying desperately to have everyone believe I'm like that—like you." Never had Linda expected to make so vituperative. She raged on:

"I won't listen to you any longer, but I want you to know that I don't want Greg Hollister, and I don't want Steve's money either—not a penny of it!"

"Of course you don't," Brenda laughed shortly, relaxing against her satin pillows. She seemed to be enjoying the scene immensely. Linda's suffering seemed to make Brenda happier.

"Linda, you're as transparent as glass. Why Steve doesn't see through this front you're putting up is beyond me. You marched yourself up here as the spirit of injured womanhood, to ask what my intentions are toward Steve, because you discovered, after it was too late, that you were madly in love with him. It's written all over you.

"Well," Brenda snapped, "all I can say is that it's none of your business now what happens to Steve. You had your chance and muffed it. What I choose to do is my own concern, and I'll thank you to keep out of my way."

"I'm still Steve's wife," Linda said, but all defiance had left her. She looked tired and bewildered. "What if I should go and tell him the truth?"

Brenda laughed mockingly. "Which of us do you think he would believe?" she queried. "The woman who is leaving him for another man, or the woman he loves?"

Linda's final hope died as she realized the significance of Brenda's statement. From the beginning, Brenda had held the winning card—Steve's love. Even he had admitted readily that he had loved Brenda since his earliest college days. He had declared he could never love anyone else.

Now that she was free, it was only natural that Brenda should reclaim Steve. The girl was entirely without scruples. She was wealthy now, established in Chicago's most exclusive circles. She would not hesitate to ruin another man's life by lying about Linda if she thought it necessary to suit her own whim.

Linda shrugged in despair. Further argument would be futile. Linda started for the door. Then she paused:

"I hope—" There were tears in her eyes; Brenda was only dimly visible. "I hope you two will be . . . very . . . happy." Suppressing a sob, Linda fled from the bedroom.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1942.

Don't ever again believe, "What we don't know won't hurt us"—what we didn't know HAS hurt us!

Ours not to reason why, ours not to even sigh—ours but to set the clock ahead and in darkness rise from bed.

There's talk of reviving that once-popular show, "Three Men on a Horse"—just to demonstrate what can be done in an emergency.

Estimate War's Cost In Lives

WHILE it will not be possible, until official statistics are assembled after the war ends, to determine the exact cost in human lives, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company have gathered figures that are probably more accurate than the claims of any of the battling nations as to losses inflicted upon the enemy.

This tabulation estimates that the combatants' death toll among warring nations in 1941 reached a minimum of 1,250,000 and may have exceeded 1,600,000.

It is also estimated that during the three weeks of war in December, starting with the Pearl Harbor attack, United States losses were heavier than in the entire first year of the nation's participation in the first World war, and that Japan suffered "many thousands" of deaths in those three weeks, as against only 300 Japanese killed in action in the first World war.

Heaviest toll of 1941 resulted from fighting on the eastern front, with Germany's losses placed at from 300,000 to 600,000 and Russia's in excess of 700,000 for the last half of the year. British losses for the year were estimated at fewer than 40,000 and Italy's at from 30,000 to 50,000.

It is as these human losses are considered that the frightfully high cost of war becomes more fully realized. Whatever the money cost may be, it is small as compared with the irreparable loss that results from killing hundreds of thousands of people—soldiers, sailors, marines, airmen and civilians.

It is a solemn duty of the United States, and the United Nations, to accomplish quickest possible defeat of the Axis powers, so that peace may be restored to the world and this senseless slaughter stopped.

Time For Encouragement, Not Ridicule

THE RIDICULE now being heaped upon congressmen in the "Bundles for Congress" movement, intended to rebuke national legislators for voting themselves pensions, is not a good thing at this time.

Efforts to secure repeal of the law to pension senators and representatives are entirely proper and this should be accomplished as quickly as possible.

But it should be kept in mind that this nation is now in the midst of war and that much important legislation must be considered by members of both the senate and house. Ridicule, such as is being directed toward congressmen, is an effective weapon for disturbing poise and shattering stuffed-shirt dignity. But what congressmen need now is a public attitude of encouragement to do their best, rather than the razzing they are getting for showing themselves at their worst by making a pension grab without giving taxpayers an opportunity to express themselves on the subject.

It should also be remembered that senators and representatives—strong and weak, competent and incompetent—are elected by majorities in their respective states, and are presumably the highest type of citizenship and statesmanship available in each state and district.

If this is not actually the case it seems more fair to place blame on those who do the electing rather than on the men who may mistakenly believe they are qualified for places of such high responsibility.

Adopt Thrifty Driving Habits

TIME is still money to many people, and it isn't necessary to slow down a car to 25 or 30 miles an hour on an open road. But neither is it necessary, very often, to drive more than 40 miles an hour. At that limit a driver will make a considerable saving on both gas and tires.

Of these two requirements the tires, at present, are the more important, as it is still possible to buy more gas, but not more tires.

When you increase your speed from 25 to 35 miles an hour, experts say, your tires wear out twice as fast. At 45 miles they wear out three times as fast, at 55 five times as fast, and at 65 seven times as fast.

Obviously no sensible driver today will drive at 65 miles an hour, which was recently a rather common highway speed. Neither will many want to face the consequences of driving at 55, except in an emergency. The common speed on an open road may be 35 to 45. Driving at 40, says the head of a big auto association, is "smart." For mere "pleasure driving," of which there will be less and less, thirty-five should be plenty.

There is, however, a limit to what any car owner may gain by complete disuse. A little driving occasionally, experts say, will make a tire last longer than if it is not driven at all.

Which Indicated Insanity?

LORD NORTHCLIFFE, the British newspaper magnate who directed his country's propaganda during the first World war, is supposed to have died insane. While there is some testimony to support this story, one item would hardly be convincing evidence now.

Lord Northcliffe was firmly convinced that Japan was a menace to the Western world, and should be rendered incapable of doing harm. If this was accepted as evidence of insanity, some of the senators and congressmen who argued against fortifying Guam and providing adequate defense for the Philippines are certainly due for psychiatric tests, as the "insane" view has been proved saner.

Nazis Tag Belgium's Pigs

THEY'RE tagging pigs for Hitler in Belgium. That is to keep them from eluding Adolf's live stock control, which has failed in Holland, where half a million pigs escaped the Nazi round-up. This careful census of other people's pigs by the Nazis is an interesting phase of a war.

Those stubborn Belgians, however, are very uncooperative. Even a swift census failed to get all the pigs registered. Before the Nazi inspectors could make the rounds, freshly slaughtered pork was being sold three times a day in the rural areas. What can you do with such people?

CUTTING IN ON THE COLLECTION

Few Men Over 28 to Be Called

IN raising the country's armed forces to 3,000,000 men during the present year, few in the 28 through 35 age group, and still fewer above that, will be called to military service, it is revealed by Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, and Rep. James W. Wadsworth, co-sponsor of the selective service act, in a joint article in the American Magazine in which they explain the government's plans for the immediate future.

"The younger men," writes General Hershey, "those without dependents and those not absolutely necessary in vital occupations, if physically fit, will be taken into the fighting services as they are needed.

"To those who are not in these classes, I say, 'keep cool. Take stock of yourself and, if you are qualified to help in non-combatant work, be ready to serve if you are called. Keep yourself in good physical condition and don't worry. We intend to preserve as far as possible the social and economic stability of the millions who, behind the lines, are servicing the men in uniform, and, until the government decides it needs you, you can best serve your country by remaining calm and doing the job in which you are now engaged to the limit of your capabilities, thus promoting and furthering our national efficiency.' "

In further explanation of just how the new call to service will work, Representative Wadsworth writes:

"Reclassification (of the 21-28 group) will bring back many who had been deferred because they had served in the armed services, the national guard or in the reserve. Boards, too, will re-examine the cases of men who were deferred as necessary in industry, business, agriculture, or professions. General Hershey may start to call the best men in the 28-through-35 group, but he doesn't expect to find a great many. And, when you get into the 36-through-44 group, only five per cent are fit for field duty.

"I believe we can put four, perhaps five, million men into uniform before our social and economic systems are greatly disturbed.

"I am confident that in this war we shall never have to go below Class 1 for men. This class includes men fit for general military service and those fit only for limited military service. Our physical standards, which were quite strict when we were choosing men only for training, and which forced the rejection of 32 per cent of the men examined, will be somewhat relaxed and thousands heretofore rated as fit only for limited service will go into Class 1-A.

"Class 2 is made up of the 'necessary men' and those with dependents. Upon re-examination some may be found to be not 'necessary', some physically fit young married men whose wives can easily support themselves may have been treated too liberally by their boards and may be sent to war, but generally the good of the nation demands that men in this class remain in private life unless conditions become desperate."

Representative Wadsworth believes that the civilian defense organization should be taken over by the army because "to date it has been confused, with governors, mayors, chiefs of police and fire chiefs in every state, city and village doing their best but lacking in discipline and wasting much effort.

"I am sure the registration would get magnificent results," he states, "if used in connection with civilian defense."

Listen World!

Blame Yourself First

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A SUCCESSFUL business man once said to me: "I have made it a rule of my life to blame myself first when anything with which I am connected goes wrong.

"For example," said he, "take the offended customers with which every firm must deal. It's easy to fix the responsibility for that on some poor clerk, but I waste time and strength if I go on blaming clerks. IT'S MY BUSINESS TO HIRE CLERKS WHO WON'T OFFEND CUSTOMERS AND TO KEEP THEIR CONDUCT UP TO STANDARD. And so it goes along the line. No matter what happens, it's really up to me and I might as well recognize that to begin with."

BLAME YOURSELF FIRST!

That's a good philosophy for any human. And you'll not get very far in life until you adopt it.

Barring the acts of God, you and you alone are responsible for the things that happen in your life.

You're responsible if your husband is rude to you—

Or your children sass you—

Or the neighbors impose upon you—

Or the trade folk cheat you—

Or the world at large does you dirt.

You may not be able to change the character of husbands, children, neighbors, trade folk or the world at large—

But you can control their attitude towards you—

AND THE SERVICE THEY RENDER YOU.

You can tighten up the loose ends in your own character which give people the opportunity to undo you.

The loose ends of laziness, fuzzy thinking, self-pity, cowardice, conceit, sentimentality and peevishness—

These are the things that really undo and betray you—not your fellow man.

Your husband's rudeness, your neighbors' malice, your children's impudence, do not begin in husbands, neighbors or children.

They begin in you—

IN THE WEAK PLACES OF YOUR OWN NATURE.

DON'T WASTE TIME COMPLAINING ABOUT WHAT OTHER PEOPLE DO TO YOU.

GET BUSY AND MAKE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THEM TO DO SUCH THINGS TO YOU!

BLAME YOURSELF FIRST!

YOU'RE THE RESPONSIBLE PARTY!

Timely Editorial

Worth Preserving.

General Douglas MacArthur to his commanding officer: 'Today, January 30, the anniversary of your birth, smoke-begrimed men, covered with the marks of battle, rise from the fox holes of Batan and the batteries of Corregidor to pray fervently that God may bless immeasurably the president of the United States."

An unidentified navy flier to his commanding officer: "Sighted sub, sank same."

Two messages sent back last week by men on the battle front, one the army's commander in chief in the Far East, the other a petty officer of the United States navy patrolling some undisclosed sea area. Both equally apt to become part of the literature of patriotism. Winston Churchill, it seems, is not the only phrasemaker this war has produced.—Kansas City Star.

Daily Bible Thought

Or ever the silver cord be loosed, or the golden bowl be broken, or the pitcher broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the cistern, then shall the dust return to earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God that gave it.—Eccles. 12:6-7.

Dies Finds Sensational Evidence Of Jap Espionage on West Coast

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Sensational evidence about Japanese subversive activity in the United States is due soon in a report by the Dies committee.

The report will disclose how a systematized fifth column, directed by Japanese consuls, engaged in widespread espionage and Axis propaganda for several years prior to the war.

The "front" for the fifth column was the Central Japanese association, with headquarters in Los Angeles, which numbered many Japanese-American business men in its membership. Several of them are still at large, the committee will reveal, presumably still active.

Dies investigators seized some highly interesting documents in the association's files, including a report to Tokyo on the amount of money raised in the United States to buy warplanes for the Jap army and navy—planes later used to bomb Pearl Harbor and the Philippines.

Another amazing discovery was a cablegram sent by the association to the war and navy ministries in Tokyo early last year. It read:

"We resident countrymen from afar express our wholehearted gratitude to the officers and men of the Imperial army fighting throughout China for the establishment of everlasting peace in East Asia and we pledge ourselves hereafter to exert more and more efforts from behind the lines here in the United States."

Bureaucratic Brass.

PRICE CONTROLLER Leon Henderson was given a new idea for a "collective drive" the other day, which, if carried out, would affect thousands of bureaucrats.

It was submitted by Representative Albert J. Engel of Michigan, who called on Henderson with congressmen from furniture manufacturing districts in order to discuss priorities.

On his way into Henderson's office, Engel picked up a brass nameplate from the desk of a reception clerk. "I want to borrow this for a few minutes," he said. "I'll return it when we come back out."

The receptionist had a sudden, disquieting vision of Engel using the nameplate to crown her boss if the conference became hot. But before she could object, Engel stuck the weighty object in his pocket and was gone. Half way through the conference, he dramatically produced the nameplate and asked if they were still being manufactured.

"I can't say, Mr. Congressman," replied Henderson.

"Well, if they are, it strikes me as silly to be using brass for something like this when there's a shortage of it for war materials," said Engel. "This plate weighs about two pounds and there are thousands like it in government offices all over town. They all should be collected and smelted down for war production."

"Say, that's a good idea," declared Henderson. "I've never had any use for these things myself, even in peacetime. I always figured they were a waste of the taxpayers' money."

Capital Chaff.

NIGHT sessions of congress appear to be a thing of the past. When darkness gathers, members eye the glass roof of house or senate with misgivings about possible air raids. . . . Returning from Rio by Pan American clipper, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles relaxed in his first bridge game in seven years. . . . A New York firm is trying to find a buyer for 10,500 cases of strawberry jam which was made for the army but rejected by agriculture inspectors as having too much jam and not enough strawberries.

New Cookie Pushers.

FOR YEARS the state department has been the chief habitat of the type of government official known irreverently among Washington newsmen as "cookie pushers." A cookie pusher is a natural born appeaser, whose invariable reaction to a problem demanding forceful action is to soft-pedal.

It now begins to look as if the state department is going to have real competition in cookie-pushing. The office of facts and figures is its new rival.

OFF is one of the new wartime agencies. Its function is to maintain public morale on the home front. For this purpose, OFF is rapidly building up a large staff of writers, professors and other cognoscenti, most of whom wear tweeds and all of whom get fat salaries. So far their masterminding seems concerned with the comfort of Jap enemy aliens.

On Monday, on the heels of a justice department order to evacuate Jap aliens from scores of strategic Pacific coast areas, the FBI swooped down on a large Jap fishing colony in Los Angeles and arrested hundreds of these aliens on suspicion of espionage and fifth-columning.

Several days after the justice department order and two days before the Los Angeles raid, an OFF official telephoned Washington correspondents of West Coast newspapers asking their papers to soft-pedal the widespread demands for drastic government action against Jap aliens.

"We feel," said the office of facts and figures official, "that a wave of public hysteria may develop and we want the newspapers to help avert it."

The correspondent of a San Francisco newspaper replied that the message would be communicated—with a strong recommendation that it be disregarded as silly and not in accord with the views of the army, navy and FBI.

Note: This incident is the second sour note struck by OFF in its brief, and none too distinguished existence. The first was its recent expensively-printed pamphlet "Report to the Nation," giving a highly glamorized account of the pre-war defense production program. There were no untruths in the report. Neither was there anything about such highly pertinent items as Jesse Jones' stalling on rubber and aluminum; the Dollar-a-Year dawdling of OPM, "unconscionable profits" by war contractors and numerous other delinquencies exposed by the Truman and house naval affairs committee.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—You like hangings? August Mencken does—as a study. The brother of H. L. Mencken has just finished a ten year study of the case histories of hangings in the United States and Great Britain that goes back to 1733 . . . The title he has chosen for his history is "Dead By the Neck."

New York's restaurants continue to indulge their fondness for naming sandwiches after departed heroes. Most of the great painters, philosophers and soldiers of departed eras have been thus immortalized, including Van Gogh, Rembrandt, etc. The trend in recent weeks has been toward our American pioneers, and so it is true to day that The Wild Bill Hickok Special adorns the menus of half a dozen midtown dining rooms and cafes.

FEBRUARY is going to be a month of anniversaries and special occasions, not only in New York but everywhere. A partial list shows that Feb. will usher in Notion Market Week, National Business Show in N. Y., Boy Scout Anniversary Week, Nat. Cherry Week, Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Better Speech Week, St. Valentine's Day, Shrove Tuesday, Ash Wednesday, Nat. Sportsmen's Show, Nat. Drama Week, and the Nat. A. A. U. Indoor Track and Field Championships.

During World war No. 1 ice cream was declared an "Essential Food" and the USFA's order read as follows: "Manufacturers of essential food stuffs will be permitted to buy sufficient sugar to meet their full requirements" . . . The banana-split boys will be glad to know that the confection is still on the "essential" list.

THAT fine success enjoyed by Loper & Barrat, dancers, goes straight back to the truism that two-thirds of the attractiveness of any dance team depends on how stunning the woman is. Don Loper himself is a designer of women's clothes and creates all of Miss Barrat's costumes. He also dresses shows and designs costumes for Katharine Cornell and Ginger Rogers. One of their newest dances is the "Dengoza," a type of dance popularized by the Castles and seldom attempted by anyone since the last war. For this number Peter De Rose wrote the music, "The American Waltz," Loper insists it is prettier even than "Deep Purple," which De Rose wrote, but I will have to hear it first before going that far.

IN MY resume of Things to Come for February I forgot to mention one of the most important of all—the Annual Press Photographer's Ball at the Astor . . . Probably no similar event matches in glitter the assemblage of film and stage stars, plus celebrities from politics, the professions and every other walk of life that attends this event every year. Last year there were nearly 4,000 on hand.

Beg pardon—In our mention of the Jack London film, "Martin Eden," last week, we credited Warner Bros. as the producers. It's Columbia.

A Farmer's Diary

His Mother's Son

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE wind was cold on the winter highway although a bright sun shone on the concrete ribbon, far ahead. The road was straight for several miles. Three lanes, marked by two white lines of paint that almost glowed, converged narrowly in the distance. Two cars appeared around the narrow bend like toys.

One tried to pass the other. A race was on. They grew larger. I could see, as they neared me, that the shiny roaring coupe was gaining speed and would soon win the lead over the sedan. When they tore past my car—I had both right wheels on the berm—I appeared to be standing still. I felt sure they had reached the hundred mark or over.

I shuddered for their safety—and for my own on such a speedway—as I pulled left, back onto the solid road. At the road bend I looked back. The shiny coupe was no longer on the highway—a car was down by the creek on its metal top. The other car had gone on. No houses were near. I feared what I should see, if I went back, but curiosity and concern predominated. I turned around and drove back that way.

The front wheel of the inverted car was still turning. With relief I heard the occupants trying to open the door. A stone had blocked the frame, but when I moved the granite boulder back, it opened easily.

"Thank you," said the driver of the car, in a broken, nervous high school-age voice. "Come on, Ruth, I'll help you out. You're not hurt, are you?"

The girl, a curly headed, lipsticked blonde, sat down on the bank beside the car and cried hysterically. Her companion patted her on the shoulder. "She'll be all right," he assured me.

I walked around the fallen machine, and looked at it.

"I told you not to race him, Jack"—I heard her say—"why we both might have been killed!"

"If that buzzard hadn't crowded me too far, it'd never 'd' a' happened."

"What'll your father say? Did he know you took the car?"

"No—Mom did. She lets me take it whenever Dad's away—only I must get it home again before he comes. I wanted to show you it could pass anything on the road . . . and we'd a done it too, if he hadn't crowded! Dad'll have to find out about this, I s'pose. Still, I'll phone mother first and maybe she'll find a way to ease us out of it. She knows that Dad's okay, but too darn careful."

"I say," he addressed me, "if you'll give me a lift to that nearest house, I'll phone my mother and then get a wrecker to pull us out of this. Want to go, too, Ruth? Thanks—thanks, a lot."

24 HOURS DAILY BRITISH SEND PROPAGANDA

World's Most Prodigious Service' Uses Two Dozen Languages.

(Editor's Note: Previous articles in The News-Journal have presented Howard Blakeslee's interpretation of the ramifications of Japanese and German propaganda. Today he discusses the British side of the battle of ideas.)

* * *

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Wide World Science Editor)

NEW YORK—London speaks 24 hours a day in two dozen languages over BBC short wave radio, said to be the world's most prodigious propaganda service.

But London was not the big service when war started. Stumblebum—the word of football coaches for the earnest huskies who can't advance the ball—seems to describe the effort of the early months.

Perhaps the initial stumblebum technique was the most subtle of this ether war. By it the British made allowances, better than anyone else, for the American suspicion of propaganda hangover from the first World war.

To the British mikes there was at first a parade of intellectual authorities in the tradition of betterment of the people. Oxford professors on international law and economics. Retired army officers on Buddhist heirarchy in Tibet. Georgraphy of Trinidad and Cyprus.

One day came Walter Citrine, trade union leader, to begin with: "Well, I don't suppose anybody wants to bother about the history of trade unionism—"

Up to invasion of Norway, the propaganda of optimism was carried on. Only the day before the Germans stole into Norway, the short waves contrasted activity of British warships with conduct of the German navy.

The battle of France changed things. BBC inaugurated thrice weekly, afterward daily, talk—Britain Speaks—aimed ostensibly at North America, and directed to U. S. listeners. The rise and nature of this propaganda is traced in the public opinion quarterly, Princeton university.

Canadian announcers were borrowed to broadcast in American style. (The Germans had borrowed Americans for a similar purpose.) The voices of novelists, playwrights, actors, a taxi driver and a weaver (both of the latter veteran broadcasters) went on the BBC waves.

From then on London was as clever as Berlin, but its style for America was more apparently frank. Contrast the opening talk of Lord Haw-Haw to Britain with Vernon Bartlett, journalist, inaugurating "Britain Speaks."

Haw-Haw said: "I may sound to you like a traitor, but hear me out."

Bartlett began. "But of course I'm a propagandist. Who isn't? Passionately I want my ideas—our ideas—of freedom and justice to survive."

Leslie Howard, actor, much later went all the way, saying: "The United British commonwealth and the United States have surely got beyond the point of niceties. We have arrived at the stage where we must tell each other openly what is in our hearts and minds. I say to hell with whether what I say sounds like propaganda. I don't think it matters any more."

In 20 days during the French defeat, there were eight appeals to America for aid. In the following four months there were only four. More came in the bleak winter air raids.

The British did not have to inaugurate much of their propaganda. They could wait for Americans to say the words. Then London rebroadcast the ideas.

London was often chatty with Americans, while the main job was going on in America itself in such ways as lend-lease, national opinion polls, evacuation of British children to America, U. S. vitamins for English little ones, British-American ambulance service, bundles for Britain, and American boys enlisting to fly for Canada and Britain.

Americans heard London bombing raids and other war scenes. British morale was stressed. J. B. Priestly, novelist, sighed for "some of America's noblest produce, including a flask of rye or bourbon."

London short wave steadily campaigns against German charges that Britain is a plutocracy. BBC has stressed war efforts of humble men and women. Sir Hugh Walpole said: "We shall never, I firmly hope and believe, be a snobbish country again."

Early this year BBC broadcasts criticized speakers who picture Japanese as animals and said that one thing we are fighting for is to get rid of bogus and wicked doctrines of racial intolerance.

Aside from countering enemy propaganda, BBC now suggests the significense of military situations. Australia is being told that England, too, long-threatened with invasion, nevertheless has sent troops, tanks and planes to other war theaters. Necessity for strong forces in the Mediterrancan is intimated by discussion of Rommel's moves.

BBC carries admissions of war errors, suggests that the public realize the difficulties of transportation, and the disturbing fact that battles are won in the lulls that precede them.

Here in the United States the American monitors of foreign propaganda carry on, determined that when this war is over, there shall be full records and understanding of the nature and effects of propaganda.

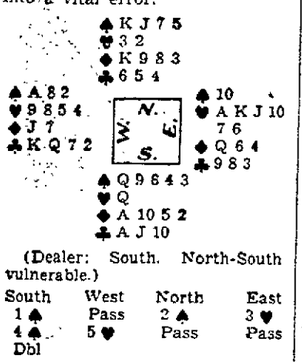
"The Authority on Authorities"

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

Knowing something which your opponents do not know—that is a great advantage, if you can find how to use it. You may be in a position to figure out that your side has the preponderant strength, or possibly the contrary, and that the opponents cannot. In either case, you may be able to plan a line of action which will make the situation look to them entirely different from what it is, and hence lure them into a vital error.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	3 ♥
4 ♠	5 ♥	Pass	Pass
Dbl

There was a splendid action picture of a champion using championship psychology. South was Morrie Elis, the No. 1 player of the 1940-41 season. Notice what an overbid he deliberately made when he jumped all the way to game. He put himself in a spot where he could be beaten without cavil. Natural play could set him 500 points—more than the value of the 4-Hearts which his not-vulnerable opponents could have made, and which in tournament duplicate would count 120 tricks plus 300 for game bonus, or a total of 420.

Why, then, was 4-Spades a good bid on his part? Merely this he—knew something which his opponents did not, and furthermore, he knew they did not know it. That is, that they had the preponderant strength. He knew it from his partner's mere raise, combined with the weakness of his own cards. But he saw also that a jump to 4-Spades would make him seem strong to the opponents, who would be tempted to sacrifice against what sounded like an airtight contract.

That bid made it seem to West that his partner had a weak hand, and therefore that the 4-Spades could be made. So he fell into the trap and sacrificed at 5-Hearts. The resultant 100 points, for a one-trick set, was a clear-cut top score on the deal.

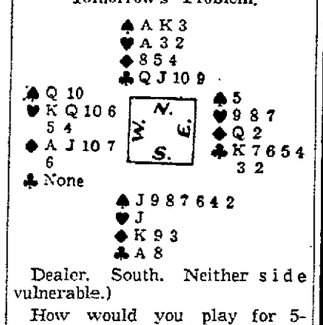
Tomorrow's Problem.



Dealer. South. Neither side vulnerable.)

How would you play for 5-Spades on this deal after West leads the heart K?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I saw my path clearly before me now. Stephen Redfield's own words had shown it to me. The only thing I had to work out was a ruse for getting out of my living room and sending my signal to Olina, now waiting in the adjoining apartment.

The means lay ready to my hand in a box filled with bonbons on the table near me. I took it up, passed it to Steve, who said simply, "Sorry, I'm smoking," and then took one myself.

"If you're patient," I said smiling, "I imagine Madame Veritzen's prejudices may wear down after a bit."

"Fat lot of good that does me now," Steve complained. "The two most attractive women in the whole show, barring present company, of course"—he gave me what was plainly meant to be a destroying glance—"and one has a jealous husband, the other a martinet mother. I ask you, where do I get off?"

Redfield's Dilemma.

He would have appealed to almost any woman, he was so boyishly doleful, but I held no brief whatever for him in my mind, although aloud I said condolingly:

"That is indeed a dilemma." Then I popped the bonbon into my mouth. Almost immediately I was seized with a fit of coughing and choking that was more real than I had intended.

Stephen sprang up, clapped me on the back in the most approved fashion.

"I'm—I'm all right," I grasped. "Just—wait."

I closed the door almost in his face and I dashed to the bathroom for water. After a minute or two I subdued the coughing and choking, but even in the midst of it I had scrawled a few words on a piece of paper.

Note to Olina.

"Be sure to bring the fan note with you, so as to have a talking point for me," I wrote. Then with one eye on my living room door, I slipped the paper beneath the camouflaged door leading to the adjoining apartment.

But half way through it stuck, and all my efforts could not push it farther.

I did not dare to knock upon the connecting door, or to unlock it, and I felt that I lived a year in the fraction of a second which elapsed before the paper disappeared into the unseen hands in the other apartment.

Then I schooled myself to calmness, took another drink of water and went back to my living room.

Steve Appears Worried.

I found Steve pacing the floor, giving an extremely creditable imitation of a greatly worried man.

"You're sure you're all right?" he intoned dramatically. "I've been so worried! You should have let me come with you."

"I should have called you if I had needed you, never fear," I told him, forcing a cordial smile. "But I always get on better alone, unless I am ill enough to be taken to a hospital. Sit down, do, and let us resume our chat."

"I don't know what good it will do," he said a bit dolefully. "I seem to be stymied as far as showing a good time to the lovely ladies in the play are concerned.

Slur at Noel.

"But I really am glad about Noel and Mary. They could do with a bit of making up, those two. I don't know for certain, but I have an idea that they have been having some gosh awful rows.

"But there's always trouble, don't you think, when a woman is so far superior to a man in ability and earning power as Mary is to Noel?"

"She isn't really superior at all," I said, keeping my voice from being a snarl only by a tremendous effort. "It's just a matter of temporary luck, that's all."

And then Olina's knock upon the door gave me a most welcome respite.

Girl Isn't Allowed to Go Out

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of seventeen, graduated from high school, and am employed steadily because I have to help support the family. My father died sometime ago and an older brother was head of the family until he married. My mother is very strict and doesn't want me to go out at all. I think I ought to have some fun, since I'm working.

When I ask her if I may go somewhere, she consults my married brother. I don't want to run wild but I would like to go out occasionally with my girl friends who go to respectable places. Mother is acquainted with all of my friends and also knows their parents.

What gets me upset is that whatever my brother says, my mother agrees to. I don't see what he has to do with it. He had a good time when he was young; why shouldn't I? When she acts like this, I feel like sneaking out, although I haven't done so yet.

BREADWINNER.

As you help to support the family, I agree that you should be permitted to go out once or twice a week, particularly as you want to go out only with your girl friends, with whom your mother is acquainted. I realize how you feel about consultations with your married brother.

I sympathize with your mother's anxiety. Try to solve your problem by talking it out pleasantly.

COUNCIL SETS UP FUNDS FOR WATER LINES

Appropriates $10,300 For New Systems on Park Avenue and Newman Street.

Additional fire protection for one of Mansfield's most important industrial sections had been provided today by city council with the appropriation of $10,300 for the construction of two new eight-inch water lines on Park avenue east and Newman street.

Council approved an ordinance authorizing the construction of eight-inch water lines on Park avenue east between Adams and Bushnell streets and on Newman street between East Fifth and Orange streets at its February meeting on Tuesday night.

Councilman Fred Miller of the Fifth ward said following the meeting that the new waterlines had been needed for a long time not only to protect homes but industrial plants in that vicinity.

"Up until now," said Miller, "this area has been served only by little four-inch lines which could never supply enough water for any real emergency."

Among the industrial firms which will be benefitted by the new waterlines will be the Art Rattan company on Park Avenue east and the Humphryes Manufacturing company, the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company and the Tappan Stove company on Newman street.

GEN. JOHNSON: Try to Discredit Girl's Spy Testimony

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — It certainly is not defeatism to grouse about bungling war-making, if the conclusion is not: "So you're licked, you big palooka. Lie down and quit," but on the contrary, is: "Get in there and sock, or the referee will declare this waltzing - match no contest."

Gen. Johnson.

Something of the latter sort would be appropriate to our conduct of this war to date. It is going seriously against us. In the opinion of most military experts I know, 1942 looks very sour.

Here is the worst war in history. Right now, before our eyes, it is changing the political domination of half the globe. At its opening blast it has brought us the greatest naval disaster in our history.

With that knock-out punch, plus British misfortune, it has taken from us an element of world strength on which we had counted for two generations,—naval supremacy in the Pacific. In the process it has breached the principal bastion of our seaward defense—Hawaii—which we had regarded as impregnable.

In the meantime, the strength of our principal allies or friends, upon which we had been taught to rely has been proved to be a strength sufficient to resist only by reliance on our strength and that to the full value (pledged or given) of all the wealth and value accumulated in the United States since Christopher Columbus.

In giving it we shall be forced to violate strategic principle number one and scatter and dribble our strength away over the whole surface of the known earth, instead of concentrating in the spot where we can meet any maximum strength with a greater strength of our own.

The process of stumbling and fumbling and blundering ourselves into this unhappy situation has taken years. It has been signalized by a sort of happy go-lucky carelessness which pooh-poohed proved plans worked out by veteran experts on experience and substituted for them flash-in-the-pan experiments, ill-considered, poorly organized and lacking either competent or sufficient responsibility and authority. There may be an equivalent record of waste and ineptitude but it does not readily come to mind.

There is no use crying over spilt milk or wasted billions in wealth and opportunity for national defense, and there would be no excuse for such a column as this if one aspect of it—perhaps the chief cause of it—did not remain. It is this—speaking by and large, the general public, instead of being shaken with indignation, simply does not seem to give a tinker's dam—not even yet.

When the Maine was sunk in Havana harbor and our flag over Fort Sumter was fired upon, these events were the culmination of years of incidents that had the whole county (in one case) and all of the north (in the other) seething with anger. What happened was close to home and almost everybody nursed a grievance.

This upheaval is different. Most people don't even know the names of the areas involved and "the four freedoms" are just a little too high up in the rarefied stratosphere for the average guy to tell the difference between a war for them and a war to gain possession of oil, rubber and distant dominions.

It is too late to talk about that now. That may have brought us into the war, but the only fact that counts now is that we are in it and must get ready to give a good account of ourselves or suffer the worst humiliation and loss our country has ever known.

This is the fact that must be brought home to our people to jar them out of their smugness and there is not a day to lose.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

This Is Patriotism.

A FEW days ago I sat in a private projection room in the heart of Broadway and watched the unreeling of a picture called "Joe Smith, American." It will be playing on Broadway soon and you will see it and I think you will like it.

Kilgallen

It is the story of a young, married, average, smart American factory worker who is captured by fifth columnists and tortured for the military secrets he knows.

It was written by Paul Gallico for Cosmopolitan magazine many months ago, in the days when not many people believed That Could Happen Here.

Now we know it could happen, and perhaps is happening or will happen tomorrow; so the film becomes not only a fine adventure story, but a classic of patriotism at work—not the loud patriotism of flag-waving and Fourth of July speeches, but the simple thing that is in the life of the fellow next door to you, the man on the subway, the man in the street.

It was "Joe Smith, American" that reminded me of what patriotism really is.

* * *

You learn patriotism first as a reflex, then you learn what it means. You are taught as a child to stand up for the "Star Spangled Banner," to salute when the flag goes by. But in wartime patriotism is much more than an automatic phase of our etiquette; it is a driving force for survival. It pops up everywhere. And it pops up everything.

Patriotism is the reservoir of resource of victory, and no square inch of America can be apart or immune from it.

The actor, the farmer . . . the chorus girl, the business man . . . the comedian, the laborer . . . the very young, the very old, conspire to defend what they know to be good against the greatest criminals in history.

I suppose you could say that patriotism is America in action. It is the president in the White House with his coat off, and it is the Joe Smiths in millions of little white houses that are no less or no more important than the United States of America itself.

* * *

It is the newspaperman getting home to Forest Hills at 2 a. m., in time to go out for air raid warden duty. It's the frail little lady in an ermine coat telling a sergeant in a recruiting station, "I'll do anything . . . anything."

* * *

Patriotism is Winthrop Rockefeller asking for no favors in the army. It is Jimmy Stewart in uniform being just the simple, goodnatufed kid he used to portray in the movies—or the swell kid he is in person.

It's the Stork club playboy who's glad he's got something substantial to do, like carrying a gun. It's a hundred and one band leaders giving up thousands of dollars to appear in army camps. And thousands of entertainers and musicians pitching in to raise funds and morale in the services.

Patriotism is all of us working for all of them and all of them fighting for all of us. It's saving newspapers and tin foil and aluminum; being economical; not hoarding.

It is women giving up their spare time for war work, society belles conniving practical ways of raising money for the services, civilians digging deep into their jeans to buy bonds, buy-a-bomber, give to the Red Cross, give to Navy Relief.

It is the fortitude and shining heroism of General MacArthur, and the spirit of Colin Kelly, jr., a little of which is in all of us.

FERGUSON CALLS LIMA HOSPITAL 'RAT - RAVAGED'

Declares Officials Ran Loan Business For Own Profit In Institution.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane today was pictured by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson as a rat-ravaged institution where key officials for years ran thriving small loans and other businesses for personal profit.

The Ferguson charges were based on a report made by Examiners Thomas C. Hutson and Anthony F. Zeier of the auditor's office. The report covers the period from Oct. 16, 1935, to May 5, 1941. Copies have been forwarded to Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert for whatever action is required.

The audit was begun after Dr. H. M. Turk resigned as superintendent several months ago and was replaced by Dr. R. E. Bushong, who had been superintendent during the first three years of the report.

In their report to Ferguson, the examiners declared:

"Errors in the work of J. F. Snodgrass (former chief clerk) and C. G. Anthony (suspended chief clerk) are such as to raise a question of their competency.

"Cash book balances were adjusted to cover up omission of receipts or disbursements. Salary advances and repayments were not noted in any way and tend to show false balances.

Hutson and Zeier charged that for 12 years before their examination, Anthony ran a thriving small or personal loan business among attendants, withholding their monthly pay warrants and deducting the money plus 4 per cent interest, regardless of how long the loan ran.

Some attendants, the examiners reported, made affidavits that they had not seen their own state pay warrants for months.

Fifty employes declared they had borrowed from Anthony. One third of the pay warrants for December of 1940 bore his endorsement or that of Vinton Perin, a patient, who assisted him, the examiners stated.

The examiners said the housekeeping department under Mrs. Kerinda Paul was lax and the presence of many rats and roaches attested to the neglect. No effort was made to eliminate them.

In addition, the examiners asserted there was evidence of payroll padding in the case of Guy Little, an attendant who was arrested Oct. 19, 1940, and lodged in the Allen county jail.

DAVEY STEEL FIRM CLOSES

Cleveland Company, Operated By Former Mansfielder, To Shut Doors.

The W. H. Davey Steel company in Cleveland, founded and headed by a former president of the Mansfield Sheet and Tin Plate company, today became the first small steel company in northern Ohio forced to quit business because of war priorities.

W. H. Davey, chairman of the company's board, said inability to obtain supplies resulted in the decision to liquidate the firm. Directors of the company have recommended that the company interests be sold to Detroit industrialists.

Officials of the company pointed out that the nation's huge armament program, requiring the shipping of thousands of tons of raw and semi-finished steel to other parts of the world, had virtually shut off the source of supply for small non-integrated companies.

The company's decision to quit bears out predictions of men high in business and industry that small firms will be forced out of business unless the government gives them more war contracts and makes it possible for them to obtain materials.

With seven brothers, Davey operated the old Mansfield Sheet and Tin Plate company here before it was taken over by new interests, and became the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company. The Daveys also operated the Canton Tin Plate corporation.

"The management of the W. H. Davey Steel company has studied this situation thoroughly and has worked with the War Production board to determine the facts," Harry L. Berno, president of the company, said. "Due entirely to the exigencies of war, the management must face the problem and defer to the emergency."

Another series of meetings for women in Richland county rural communities will be opened next Monday at Ganges by Miss Elizabeth Bay, county home demonstration agent.

The meetings will instruct rural women in the making of slip-covers for their furniture. Discussions, headed by Miss Bay, will deal with the amount and type of materials needed for various furniture pieces.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Field Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering has returned to Germany from Italy after demanding that the latter provide more soldiers and workers, the BBC reported in a broadcast heard by NBC today.

NEW HIGHWAY ACROSS ISTHMUS SAFEGUARDS PANAMA CANAL

(By Associated Press)

BALBOA, Canal Zone—A new Panama canal safeguard has been established in a 48-mile transisthmian highway, over which army machines can travel ocean-to-ocean in two hours.

At places the route is only a one-way graded trail backed through dense tropical jungle, but army trucks traversed it for the first time this week, demonstrating its availability in any emergency involving the vital canal and closely paralleling railway.

The highway adds a third and well-separated route to the canal and railway which hitherto were the only avenues of heavy transport across the Isthmus of Panama.

Begun in December, 1940, as a joint canal zone and republic of Panama enterprise, the highway assumed enormous military significance after the United States and Panama entered the war against the Axis in December, 1941.

Canal defense authorities promptly obtained permission of the United States public roads administration to cleave a trail across seven miles of jungle-covered hogback hills and deep ravines—last portion of a right-of-way originally planned for commercial traffic.

The army engineers moved in and after 14 days of relentless labor constructed a trail over which army "jeeps" (command cars) and "peeps" (quarter-ton bantams) can slosh and powerhouse their way from Atlantic to Pacific or vice versa.

Now it becomes the job of the public roads administration, during Panama's present "dry season," to lay a two-way 50-mile-an-hour concrete highway before arrival of the "rainy season" that would speedily reduce this strategic highway to the jungle from which it was so recently reclaimed.

Granted a full quota of dry weather, the job will be done in two months. The paving will cover a 27-mile stretch from Atlantic coast bases to Madden dam, there connecting with an asphalt road which extends to the Pacific coast bases.

CLOSE CALL

Mt. Gilead Pupils Endangered In School Shop Blast.

MOUNT GILEAD —(AP)— Three students and an instructor narrowly escaped injury yesterday when a forge blew up in the farm shop at Mount Gilead high school. Investigators said today the blast probably was caused by dynamite overlooked when coal used in the forge left the mine. Dynamite is used in mining.

Pieces of metal tore a hole in the shop ceiling and ripped through a steel shield surrounding the forge. Francis Dalrymple, instructor in the vocational class, and three students, Richard Patterson, Robert Lawyer and Dale Doyle were endangered.

RATION GAS

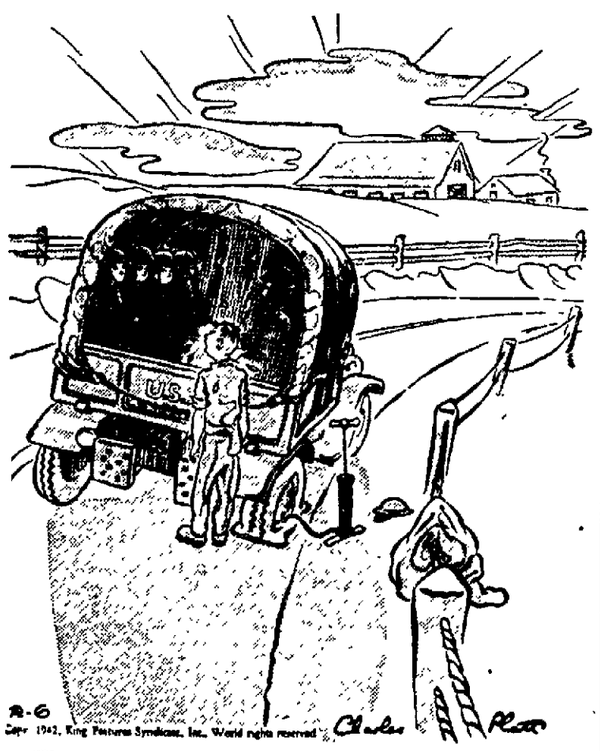
Authorities In Honolulu Restrict Sales of Motor Fuel to Civilians.

HONOLULU — (INS) — Military and government authorities today fixed the prices of meat and ordered gasoline rationed, effective Feb. 15. At the same time, it was announced that a threatened shortage of beef has been forestalled by the arrival of a 700,000 pound shipment.

KILLED BY RUNAWAY

CHILLICOTHE —(U.P.)— Abraham Hoosier died of injuries received when a team of horses ran away and threw him from a wagon.

Laff-a-Day



"You guys ain't co-operating! I said breathe in on the DOWN-stroke!"

While city residents can change to war times with little or no inconvenience just by moving their clocks ahead an hour, Richland county farmers are wondering what they are going to do about it. Farmers live and work by the sun rather than the clock, and certain tasks they perform can't be changed by moving the clock ahead or back. County Agent George B. Ganyard pointed out that the sun won't come up any earlier and the dew won't leave the grass any sooner under the new time. At the same time, farmers must comply with the dairyman's schedule if they sell milk, and a number of them probably will be forced to adopt war time even against their wishes.

Liquor and a successful life of crime, even though it be a petty theft, don't seem to mix. Mansfield police reported that they were called to one of the city's five-and-ten cents stores yesterday to arrest a shoplifter who was obviously under the influence of alcohol. The man had stolen a package of socks, according to police, but was so unsteady that he dropped them before reaching the door of the store.

The garden-minded will be aided in their season's planning by the "victory garden display" now being installed at the Garden Center in the Mansfield Public library. While the exhibit will not be open to the public until Tuesday, the Town and Country Garden club, responsible for the February arrangement of the Garden Center, is now arranging garden literature and setting up exhibits that will be helpful to all gardeners from the window-box variety to the cultivator of considerable acreage.

When the restrictions are lifted on the sale of new cars, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson will be among the first to get one, and the county can use that new truck and snow plow the commissioners purchased eight weeks ago. Commissioners today had ordered a new sheriff's car from the Herring Motor Car company at a cost of $657.80, including the trade-in value of an old car. But the commissioners don't know when the car will be delivered. Shortly after the county bought a new truck for the road department about eight weeks ago, the government order "freezing" deliveries went into effect. So the truck is in Mansfield and all equipped with a snow plow, but no one can use it.

TAKES OWN LIFE

Ex-Lexington School Head Dead at Oberlin.

William A. Wickline, 42, former superintendent of the Lexington schools, was found dead of gunshot wounds yesterday at his home in Oberlin. Authorities said it was suicide.

Mr. Wickline headed the Lexington schools for five years, resigning last year to take a job with a school supply firm in Illinois. He was the author of a book, "A Man-Made God," published at Oberlin last year by the author and his son.

The book, popularly accepted in the state was described as a study of tolerance and understanding as the goals of modern education.

Members of Mr. Wickline's family said he had been despondent because of ill health. Friends here said he was in failing health before he left Richand county.

ATTORNEYS CROSS-QUIZ STAR WITNESS

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Attorneys defending seven persons charged with spying in behalf of Germany, cross-examined an 18-year-old girl today, striving to discredit her testimony which had connected their clients with Henrich Himmler, chief of the gestapo, and other Nazis.

Lucy Boehmler, a pretty blond secretary to Kurt Frederick Ludwig, Ohio-born alleged brains of the spy ring, and hired when she was just out of business school, had neglected none of the seven in almost two days of testimony for the government.

She charged that Ludwig reported directly to Himmler, and that Mrs. Helen Pauline Mayer, a housewife, and the only woman defendant, had tried to smuggle plans of the army's famous B-19 bomber out of the country and to Japan.

She admitted under cross-examination by Warren J. Heeg, attorney for Mrs. Mayer and three other defendants, that her sisters were members of the German-American bund, but she said her father, a naturalized citizen, had not known she was working for spies.

"Do you consider Germany your fatherland?" Heeg asked.

"I was born there," she answered.

"Do you prefer Germany to the United States?"

"I do not."

"Is your allegiance or loyalty as an individual to Germany or to the United States?"

"To the United States; there's no doubt in my mind about that."

"You knew, when you accepted this position, did you not, that you were aiding Germany and injuring the United States?"

"I never thought about it."

Heeg demanded to know what she was thinking while she sent military secrets of the United States to Germany.

"I never thought about it—just did what I was told," she said.

She told Heeg that she was arrested by the federal bureau of investigation last Aug. 26, almost at once began making statements, was soon transferred from prison to a hotel room, attended the movies once or twice a week under guard, and is allowed to walk in a park. And, she told him sharply, she also is allowed to window-shop. She has pleaded guilty to espionage and will be sentenced later.

COUNCIL SETS UP FUNDS FOR WATER LINES

Appropriates $10,300 For New Systems on Park Avenue and Newman Street.

Additional fire protection for one of Mansfield's most important industrial sections had been provided today by city council with the appropriation of $10 300 for the construction of two new eight-inch water lines on Park avenue east and Newman street.

Council approved an ordinance authorizing the construction of eight-inch water lines on Park avenue east between Adams and Bushnell streets and on Newman street between East Fifth and Orange streets at its February meeting on Tuesday night

Councilman Fred Miller of the Fifth ward said following the meeting that the new waterlines had been needed for a long time not only to protect homes but industrial plants in that vicinity.

"Up until now," said Miller, "this area has been served only by little four-inch lines which could never supply enough water for any real emergency."

Among the industrial firms which will be benefitted by the new waterlines will be the Art Rattan company on Park Avenue east and the Humphrves Manufacturing company, the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company and the Tappan Stove company on Newman street.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — It certainly is not defeatism to grouse about bungling war-making, if the conclusion is not: "So you're licked, you big palooka. Lie down and quit," but on the contrary, is: "Get in there and sock, or the referee will declare this waltzing - match no contest."

Gen. Johnson.

Something of the latter sort would be appropriate to our conduct of this war to date. It is going seriously against us. In the opinion of most military experts I know, 1942 looks very sour.

Here is the worst war in history. Right now, before our eyes, it is changing the political domination of half the globe. At its opening blast it has brought us the greatest naval disaster in our history.

With that knock-out punch, plus British misfortune, it has taken from us an element of world strength on which we had counted for two generations,—naval supremacy in the Pacific. In the process it has breached the principal bastion of our seaward defense—Hawaii—which we had regarded as impregnable.

In the meantime, the strength of our principal allies or friends, upon which we had been taught to rely has been proved to be a strength sufficient to resist only by reliance on our strength and that to the full value (pledged or given) of all the wealth and value accumulated in the United States since Christopher Columbus.

In giving it we shall be forced to violate strategic principle number one and scatter and dribble our strength away over the whole surface of the known earth, instead of concentrating in the spot where we can meet any maximum strength with a greater strength of our own.

The process of stumbling and fumbling and blundering ourselves into this unhappy situation has taken years. It has been signalized by a sort of happy go-lucky carelessness which pooh-poohed proved plans worked out by veteran experts on experience and substituted for them flash-in-the-pan experiments, ill-considered, poorly organized and lacking either competent or sufficient responsibility and authority. There may be an equivalent record of waste and ineptitude but it does not readily come to mind.

There is no use crying over spilt milk or wasted billions in wealth and opportunity for national defense, and there would be no excuse for such a column as this if one aspect of it—perhaps the chief cause of it—did not remain. It is this—speaking by and large, the general public, instead of being shaken with indignation, simply does not seem to give a tinker's dam—not even yet.

When the Maine was sunk in Havana harbor and our flag over Fort Sumter was fired upon, these events were the culmination of years of incidents that had the whole county (in one case) and all of the north (in the other) seething with anger. What happened was close to home and almost everybody nursed a grievance.

This upheaval is different. Most people don't even know the names of the areas involved and "the four freedoms" are just a little too high up in the rarefied stratosphere for the average guy to tell the difference between a war for them and a war to gain possession of oil, rubber and distant dominions.

It is too late to talk about that now. That may have brought us into the war, but the only fact that counts now is that we are in it and must get ready to give a good account of ourselves or suffer the worst humiliation and loss our country has ever known.

This is the fact that must be brought home to our people to jar them out of their smugness and there is not a day to lose.

FERGUSON CALLS LIMA HOSPITAL 'RAT-RAVAGED'

Declares Officials Ran Loan Business For Own Profit In Institution.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane today was pictured by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson as a rat-ravaged institution where key officials for years ran thriving small loans and other businesses for personal profit.

The Ferguson charges were based on a report made by Examiners Thomas C. Hutson and Anthony F. Zeier of the auditor's office. The report covers the period from Oct. 16, 1935, to May 5, 1941. Copies have been forwarded to Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert for whatever action is required.

The audit was begun after Dr. H. M. Turk resigned as superintendent several months ago and was replaced by Dr. R. E. Bushong, who had been superintendent during the first three years of the report.

In their report to Ferguson, the examiners declared:

"Errors in the work of J. F. Snodgrass (former chief clerk) and C. G. Anthony (suspended chief clerk) are such as to raise a question of their competency.

"Cash book balances were adjusted to cover up omission of receipts or disbursements. Salary advances and repayments were not noted in any way and tend to show false balances.

Hutson and Zeier charged that for 12 years before their examination, Anthony ran a thriving small or personal loan business among attendants, withholding their monthly pay warrants and deducting the money plus 4 per cent interest, regardless of how long the loan ran.

Some attendants, the examiners reported, made affidavits that they had not seen their own state pay warrants for months.

Fifty employes declared they had borrowed from Anthony. One third of the pay warrants for December of 1940 bore his endorsement or that of Vinton Perin, a patient, who assisted him, the examiners stated.

The examiners said the housekeeping department under Mrs. Kerinda Paul was lax and the presence of many rats and roaches attested to the neglect. No effort was made to eliminate them.

In addition, the examiners asserted there was evidence of payroll padding in the case of Guy Little, an attendant who was arrested Oct. 19, 1940, and lodged in the Allen county jail.

Up and Down the Street

While city residents can change to war times with little or no inconvenience just by moving their clocks ahead an hour, Richland county farmers are wondering what they are going to do about it. Farmers live and work by the sun rather than the clock, and certain tasks they perform can't be changed by moving the clock ahead or back. County Agent George B. Ganyard pointed out that the sun won't come up any earlier and the dew won't leave the grass any sooner under the new time. At the same time, farmers must comply with the dairyman's schedule if they sell milk, and a number of them probably will be forced to adopt war time even against their wishes.

* * *

Liquor and a successful life of crime, even though it be a petty theft, don't seem to mix. Mansfield police reported that they were called to one of the city's five-and-ten cents stores yesterday to arrest a shoplifter who was obviously under the influence of alcohol. The man had stolen a package of socks, according to police, but was so unsteady that he dropped them before reaching the door of the store.

The garden-minded will be aided in their season's planning by the "victory garden display" now being installed at the Garden Center in the Mansfield Public library. While the exhibit will not be open to the public until Tuesday, the Town and Country Garden club, responsible for the February arrangement of the Garden Center, is now arranging garden literature and setting up exhibits that will be helpful to all gardeners from the window-box variety to the cultivator of considerable acreage.

When the restrictions are lifted on the sale of new cars, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson will be among the first to get one, and the county can use that new truck and snow plow the commissioners purchased eight weeks ago. Commissioners today had ordered a new sheriff's car from the Herring Motor Car company at a cost of $657.30, including the trade-in value of an old car. But the commissioners don't know when the car will be delivered. Shortly after the county bought a new truck for the road department about eight weeks ago, the government order "freezing" deliveries went into effect. So the truck is in Mansfield and all equipped with a snow plow, but no one can use it.

ATTORNEYS CROSS-QUIZ STAR WITNESS

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Attorneys defending seven persons charged with spying in behalf of Germany, cross-examined an 18-year-old girl today, striving to discredit her testimony which had connected their clients with Henrich Himmler, chief of the gestapo, and other Nazis.

Lucy Boehmler, a pretty blond secretary to Kurt Frederick Ludwig, Ohio-born alleged brains of the spy ring, and hired when she was just out of business school, had neglected none of the seven in almost two days of testimony for the government.

She charged that Ludwig reported directly to Himmler, and that Mrs. Helen Pauline Mayer, a housewife, and the only woman defendant, had tried to smuggle plans of the army's famous B-19 bomber out of the country and to Japan.

She admitted under cross-examination by Warren J. Heeg, attorney for Mrs. Mayer and three other defendants, that her sisters were members of the German-American bund, but she said her father, a naturalized citizen, had not known she was working for spies.

"Do you consider Germany your fatherland?" Heeg asked.

"I was born there," she answered.

"Do you prefer Germany to the United States?"

"I do not."

"Is your allegiance or loyalty as an individual to Germany or to the United States?"

"To the United States; there's no doubt in my mind about that."

"You knew, when you accepted this position, did you not, that you were aiding Germany and injuring the United States?"

"I never thought about it."

Heeg demanded to know what she was thinking while she sent military secrets of the United States to Germany.

"I never thought about it—just did what I was told," she said.

She told Heeg that she was arrested by the federal bureau of investigation last Aug. 26, almost at once began making statements, was soon transferred from prison to a hotel room, attended the movies once or twice a week under guard, and is allowed to walk in a park. And, she told him sharply, she also is allowed to window-shop. She has pleaded guilty to espionage and will be sentenced later.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

This Is Patriotism.

A FEW days ago I sat in a private projection room in the heart of Broadway and watched the unreeling of a picture called "Joe Smith, American." It will be playing on Broadway soon and you will see it and I think you will like it.

Kilgallen

It is the story of a young, married, average, smart American factory worker who is captured by fifth columnists and tortured for the military secrets he knows.

It was written by Paul Gallico for Cosmopolitan magazine many months ago, in the days when not many people believed That Could Happen Here.

Now we know it could happen, and perhaps is happening or will happen tomorrow; so the film becomes not only a fine adventure story, but a classic of patriotism at work—not the loud patriotism of flag-waving and Fourth of July speeches, but the simple thing that is in the life of the fellow next door to you, the man on the subway, the man in the street.

It was "Joe Smith, American" that reminded me of what patriotism really is.

* * *

You learn patriotism first as a reflex, then you learn what it means. You are taught as a child to stand up for the "Star Spangled Banner," to salute when the flag goes by. But in wartime patriotism is much more than an automatic phase of our etiquette; it is a driving force for survival. It pops up everywhere. And it pops up everything.

Patriotism is the reservoir of resource of victory, and no square inch of America can be apart or immune from it.

The actor, the farmer . . . the chorus girl, the business man . . . the comedian, the laborer . . . the very young, the very old, conspire to defend what they know to be good against the greatest criminals in history.

I suppose you could say that patriotism is America in action. It is the president in the White House with his coat off, and it is the Joe Smiths in millions of little white houses that are no less or no more important than the United States of America itself.

* * *

It is the newspaperman getting home to Forest Hills at 2 a. m., in time to go out for air raid warden duty. It's the frail little lady in an ermine coat telling a sergeant in a recruiting station, "I'll do anything . . . anything."

* * *

Patriotism is winthrop Rockefeller asking for no favors in the army. It is Jimmy Stewart in uniform being just the simple, goodnatured kid he used to portray in the movies—or the swell kid he is in person.

It's the Stork club playboy who's glad he's got something substantial to do, like carrying a gun. It's a hundred and one band leaders giving up thousands of dollars to appear in army camps. And thousands of entertainers and musicians pitching in to raise funds and morale in the services.

Patriotism is all of us working for all of them and all of them fighting for all of us. It's saving newspapers and tin foil and aluminum; being economical; not hoarding.

It is women giving up their spare time for war work, society belles conniving practical ways of raising money for the services, civilians digging deep into their jeans to buy bonds, buy-a-bomber, give to the Red Cross, give to Navy Relief.

It is the fortitude and shining heroism of General MacArthur, and the spirit of Colin Kelly, jr., a little of which is in all of us.

DAVEY STEEL FIRM CLOSES

Cleveland Company, Operated By Former Mansfielder, To Shut Doors.

The W. H. Davey Steel company in Cleveland, founded and headed by a former president of the Mansfield Sheet and Tin Plate company, today became the first small steel company in northern Ohio forced to quit business because of war priorities.

W. H. Davey, chairman of the company's board, said inability to obtain supplies resulted in the decision to liquidate the firm. Directors of the company have recommended that the company interests be sold to Detroit industrialists.

Officials of the company pointed out that the nation's huge armament program, requiring the shipping of thousands of tons of raw and semi-finished steel to other parts of the world, had virtually shut off the source of supply for small non-integrated companies.

The company's decision to quit bears out predictions of men high in business and industry that small firms will be forced out of business unless the government gives them more war contracts and makes it possible for them to obtain materials.

With seven brothers, Davey operated the old Mansfield Sheet and Tin Plate company here before it was taken over by new interests, and became the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company. The Daveys also operated the Canton Tin Plate corporation.

"The management of the W. H. Davey Steel company has studied this situation thoroughly and has worked with the War Production board to determine the facts," Harry L. Berno, president of the company, said. "Due entirely to the exigencies of war, the management must face the problem and defer to the emergency."

NEW HIGHWAY ACROSS ISTHMUS SAFEGUARDS PANAMA CANAL

(By Associated Press)

BALBOA, Canal Zone—A new Panama canal safeguard has been established in a 48-mile transisthmian highway, over which army machines can travel ocean-to-ocean in two hours.

At places the route is only a one-way graded trail hacked through dense tropical jungle, but army trucks traversed it for the first time this week, demonstrating its availability in any emergency involving the vital canal and closely paralleling railway.

The highway adds a third and well-separated route to the canal and railway which hitherto were the only avenues of heavy transport across the Isthmus of Panama.

Begun in December, 1940, as a joint canal zone and republic of Panama enterprise, the highway assumed enormous military significance after the United States and Panama entered the war against the Axis in December, 1941.

Canal defense authorities promptly obtained permission of the United States public roads administration to cleave a trail across seven miles of jungle-covered hogback hills and deep ravines—last portion of a right-of-way originally planned for commercial traffic.

The army engineers moved in and after 14 days of relentless labor constructed a trail over which army "jeeps" (command cars) and "peeps" (quarter-ton bantams) can slosh and powerhouse their way from Atlantic to Pacific or vice versa.

Now it becomes the job of the public roads administration, during Panama's present "dry season," to lay a two-way 50-mile-an-hour concrete highway before arrival of the "rainy season" that would speedily reduce this strategic highway to the jungle from which it was so recently reclaimed.

Granted a full quota of dry weather, the job will be done in two months. The paving will cover a 27-mile stretch from Atlantic coast bases to Madden dam, there connecting with an asphalt road which extends to the Pacific coast bases.

CLOSE CALL

Mt. Gilead Pupils Endangered In School Shop Blast.

MOUNT GILEAD — (AP) — Three students and an instructor narrowly escaped injury yesterday when a forge blew up in the farm shop at Mount Gilead high school. Investigators said today the blast probably was caused by dynamite overlooked when coal used in the forge left the mine. Dynamite is used in mining.

Pieces of metal tore a hole in the shop ceiling and ripped through a steel shield surrounding the forge. Francis Dalrymple, instructor in the vocational class, and three students, Richard Patterson, Robert Lawyer and Dale Doyle were endangered.

The book, popularly accepted in the state was described as a study of tolerance and understanding as the goals of modern education.

Members of Mr. Wickline's family said he had been despondent because of ill health. Friends here said he was in failing health before he left Richand county.

EARLY PAYERS

$60,000 Already Received In Current Tax Collection.

Although Richland county's real estate tax collection for the year did not get under way officially until yesterday, County Treasurer Charles C. Payne had collected nearly $60,000 today, most of it during the first three days of the week.

Yesterday's receipts amounted to approximately $9,500, less than for either of the preceding two days. Receipts Tuesday amounted to $14,512 while the Wednesday collection totaled $14,546.

Payments so far indicate that the total collection will be one of the best in a long time, Payne said.

Property owners will have until March 20 to pay their taxes without penalty. Before that time the treasurer hopes to collect $679,432 the tax charge for the first half of the year. The county's real estate tax bill for the entire year is $1,512,389.

DIRECTORS NAME CULLER AGAIN

Monroe Township Resident Re-elected Head of Farm Loan Association.

G. H. Culler of Monroe township today had been re-elected president of the Richland County Farm Loan association at the annual meeting of directors of the association. R. R. Howard of Cass township was elected vice president to succeed F. W. Dill of Jefferson township. Vance Clever was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Hugh O. Osbun of Weller township was chosen a new member of the board of directors. He was elected for two years to complete the unexpired term of Avery Hale of Mifflin township who resigned. Osbun was one of the organizers of the association in 1919 and has not missed an annual meeting since then.

Hold-over directors are G. H. Culler, the president; Fred W. Dill and Ray Williams of Troy township.

The annual report submitted by Secretary-Treasurer Clever showed the association was serving 423 loans, totaling $1,040,000 at the close of 1941. More than 98 per cent of the loans were in good standing and total delinquencies amounted to $604.13.

Rail Agents Get Ready For Boost In Fares Tuesday

Ticket agents of the three railroads serving Mansfield are making final arrangements today for a 10 per cent rise in the price of rail fares which will go into effect next Tuesday.

Sanctioned by the interstate commerce commission, the boost will raise tariff rates to two and one-fifth cents per mile for coach travel and three and three-tenths cents per mile for first class fares.

In computing the total to be charged, officials of the Pennsylvania railroad company said they would figure the rates on the present basis of two cents a mile and then add another 10 per cent.

In addition to this charge there will be a five per cent federal tax on the total sum.

Serving Mansfield besides the Pennsylvania are the Erie railroad and the Baltimore and Ohio.

DRIVE OUT
BOWEL WORMS
Before they cause Trouble
Your children — and you, too — may have roundworms without even knowing it. And these pests, living inside the body, can cause real trouble. Watch for these warning signs: fidgeting, uneasy stomach, itchy nose and sent, nervousness, paleness.
If you even suspect roundworms, get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! Jayne's is America's leading proprietary worm medicine. Scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. It acts very gently. Expels stubborn large worms without "dynamiting." If no worms are there, it is just a mild laxative. Demand Jayne's Vermifuge.

BULLETIN:

Hoffman Headache communique No. 5003:

Assistant Coach Vere Smith is joining the navy.

The mentor of the Tyger reserve cage team has already filed his enlistment application as a yeoman, second class, has passed his mental test with flying colors on 94 per cent (50 is passing) and goes to Cleveland Wednesday for his physical examination and a test in bookkeeping and typewriting for his second class yeoman's rank.

* * *

Vere just teaches bookkeeping and typewriting at the high school, so he shouldn't have too much trouble passing that exam. Imagine his red face on returning to classes at Mansfield high school after failing to pass such an exam. That can't happen here.

Smith expects to be called to the service in about three weeks, just about the close of his reserve team's schedule.

* * *

So now when Coach Vern Hoffman looks over Coach Vere Smith's reserves for reinforcements for his Tyger squad, Vere retorts: "You can't take my players in great gobs. I'm the Great Gob in person. See you at sea, chum."

* * *

Let's look over the Hoffman headache as the symptoms have been recorded in this column this week:

Wednesday — Hoffman learns Ken Krupp, guard, will have a birthday Feb. 15 and will be ineligible thereafter.

Thursday — Joe Romano, forward, ordered by his doctor to take two weeks' rest. Hoffman announces Bill Snowden, center and guard, has quit squad to take job.

Friday — Assistant Coach Vere Smith prepares to enter navy.

* * *

All of these things happened within ten days after Jack Shiplet, guard, was lost to the Tygers through graduation.

A check-up of Mansfield pharmacies today disclosed the city still has an adequate supply of aspirin and sleeping powders on hand. However, it was indicated in some quarters that any further inroads on the supply by a guy named Hoffman might result in rationing these commodities.

The saddest words e'er penned or said,
Are these of Vern's: "Oooh, oooh, my head!"

Zale Leaves for Conn Fight With Murder In His Heart

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO —(AP)— Tony Zale, world's middleweight champion, slammed his training paraphernalia into grip sacks and departed for New York with murder in his heart.

The usually modest Zale, who rarely boasts of his fighting ability, was scorched. He had taken to heart the statements credited to Billy Conn shouting from Pittsburgh that he'd start swinging at Zale for keeps, even before crawling into the ring together to fight for important dough in Madison Square Garden a week from tonight.

* * *

"Who does that Conn think he is?" Zale asked. "Why doesn't he save all that energy until we get paid for it. He'll need it, I'm telling you. Joe Louis slowed him down so much that he had a tough time licking a couple of very ordinary heavyweights in the last six weeks. I know I can outhit him and I think he knows it, too. He's no super boxer. He can be tagged. Joe Louis proved that."

* * *

The 160-pound titleholder boomed defiance at Billy-the-Kid from Pittsburgh, swearing that he'd knock out the No. 1 heavyweight contender. He figures he can spot Conn 10 or 12 pounds and still win.

He pointed to his engagement with Georgie Abrams, heretofore recognized by the New York athletic commission as champion before Zale caught up with him. Abrams used all his boxing mastery to outpoint Zale in the early rounds, but the Gary, Ind., man of steel finally connected with his brutal sledges to the ribs to come on and triumph.

Zale is to box Conn 12 rounds or less and he insists it will be less, with Conn on the floor.

Zale, in serious training, figures to face Conn at 163, with Conn possibly ten pounds heavier. The weight disadvantage, Zale claims, will be no bar, once he starts battering Conn's ribs, and varying his body shots with smashes to the chin.

Western Open Play Starts

150 Top Flight Golfers Start 72-Hole March.

By ROBERT MYERS

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — Golf's greatest array of players, nearly 150 strong, started out today on a long 72-hole march pointed toward cold cash and the championship of the Western Open.

For years one of the major tournaments, this edition shapes up even larger in view of the cancellation of the National Open.

* * *

Few topnotch professionals were missing as such strong contenders as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret teed off over the Phoenix Country club course, a tree-treacherous, well trapped flat layout with par figures of 36-35—71.

* * *

Six former winners of the event were entered—three-time Champion Ralph Guldahl, Nelson, Demaret, Ed Dudley, Harry Cooper and Johnny Revolta, but absent, and located somewhere in army service, was last year's victor, Ed (Porky) Oliver.

Over this same course Oliver shot the 72 holes in 275, nine strokes under par, for an average of a point or so over 68 per round.

While at the meeting they will hear panel discussion in the Deshler-Wallick hotel concerning care of forests in the state and measures to combat pollution of streams.

The Richland county organization also announced today that it would hold its annual dinner during National Wildlife week, April 11-19.

NEWSOM PREPARES NAMES TO MEET NEW CONTRACT

Hartsville, S. C.—(U.P.)—Pitcher Buck Newsom was prepared today to swap choice names with the Detroit Tiger management if his 1942 contract, as yet unarrived, contains that reported "safuly slice in salary."

"If I get a contract calling for a lot less money I just want to say that I played on a mediocre club last season," Newsom said yesterday.

"Anyway I don't give a damn whether I play baseball any more or not," he added. "Why not? Well that's my business."

Jackets and Tygers Battle Tomorrow

Mt. Vernon Brings One of Its Best Teams In Recent Years

MANSFIELD high school's Tygers return to their home court tomorrow night for the first time in nearly a month when they take on the high-flying Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets, currently tied for first place in the North Central Ohio league.

The Tygers last appeared before the home fans on Jan. 16 when they defeated New Philadelphia. Since then they've won three games and lost one on the road, defeating Sandusky, Youngstown Chaney and Bellevue, and losing to Youngstown Ursuline.

* * *

Mt. Vernon, one of Ohio's basketball hot spots for the past 25 years, has one of its best teams of recent seasons, sparked by the high-scoring Pete Ransom.

* * *

Ransom recently was ordered by his physician to take a rest of several weeks, but he was able to start last week's game against Marion, and he'll be in the lineup tomorrow night against the Tygers, according to latest word from the Knox county seat. He may be kept out of tonight's Mt. Vernon game with Galion, which the Jackets figure to win easily.

Coach Myron "Mike" Prech, highly successful as a Jacket mentor, was brought back to Mt. Vernon last fall after one season at Canton Timken in which his team lost only one game, and defeated Canton McKinley.

The Jackets turned over a veteran team to Prech. Besides Ransom his lettermen include Ken Stull and Bill Parnell, seniors, and Bill Wright, a junior.

Other starters are Ed Wright, small but scrappy brother of Bill, Clarence Wirick, a six-footer who is tough under the buckets, and George "Puzz" Wilkins, small but slick floorman.

Ransom has been slowed down by sickness all season, but still leads the team in scoring with 90 points in 29 quarters. Bill Wright has 70 in 10 games, and Ed Wright 67 in 35 quarters.

Reserve teams of the two schools will meet in a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

LEARN THE Thriftier CUTS OF MEAT

Have you met these

Thriftier Pork Roasts?

THE B VITAMINS NATURAL TO PORK
THIAMINE (B_1)	1.60 milligrams
RIBOFLAVIN (G or B_2)	.34 milligram
ANTI-PELLAGRA VITAMIN	11.0 milligrams

The above figures are typical for ¼-pound edible portion before cooking

Even after thorough cooking, an average serving of lean pork supplies an abundance of thiamine (vitamin B_1) . . . so essential for physical and mental fitness.

In addition, pork, like all meat, is 96 to 98 per cent digestible, is rich in complete, high quality proteins, and contains important minerals (iron, copper, phosphorus).

ACCEPTED AMERICAN MEDICAL ASS'N Council on Foods

THERE are two ends to every pork loin, but only one center. Because many women ask for the familiar center section, both for roasts and chops, the end cuts often can be had for less money. Ask your meat-man about them.

To Roast Pork. Pork should always be cooked thoroughly. The cut slice should be grayish, without even a tinge of pink. Season with salt and pepper, place fat side up in open roasting pan. Roast uncovered and without water in moderate oven (350° F.). Allow 30 minutes per lb. or until meat thermometer reaches 185° F.

SMALL GAINS DISTRIBUTED OVER MARKET

Many Traders Still Appear Reluctant To Join In Recovery Movement.

NEW YORK—Small gains were fairly well distributed in the stock market today although many traders seemed reluctant to join the recovery ranks

Bid up occasionally were Republic Steel, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, American Can, Union Carbide and Kennecott.

Inclined to lag were U. S. Steel, Consolidated Edison, United Aircraft, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Texas Co., General Electric, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge and Eastman Kodak.

Claims and counter-claims anent battles in the far Pacific again served to confuse speculative and investment contingents.

Market optimists derived some comfort from the Republic Steel summary disclosing that the company, despite a big jump in taxes and operating costs, emerged from 1941 with a net profit of $3 87 a common share against $3 30 in 1940.

Studied was the Dun & Bradstreet survey which discerned some further slackening in anticipatory retailing purchasing this week but estimated merchandise activities for the country as a whole at 18 to 25 per cent above the corresponding period last year.

TIME CHANGE TO BE A PUZZLER

Have You Stopped To Think of the Confusion That It's Likely To Cause?

No matter how many times it's explained, people are going to get mixed up on train schedules. You look at a time table today, let's say, and plan to catch a train due to arrive here at 3 a m Monday. Do you show up at 2 or 4? Are you sure?

You've heard, of course, that the farmers don't like the change so well. They point out that they can't work in the fields until the dew is off a little. And just because the clocks are moved ahead, that doesn't mean the sun's going to come up an hour earlier, and they'll just work on the same old schedule, which might as well be called "sun time."

If you were a farmer, would you move your clock up, or leave it as it is?

The golfers, though, aren't going to kick much They'll be able to get in 18 holes even though they start late in the afternoon, because it'll be light until 9 p. m. most all summer

Sure—but there's liable to be a shortage of golf balls. Remember?

You see, this sort of thing could go on endlessly.

The purpose of the time change, of course, is to conserve electric power—because most of the year except in the winter, work can be done by daylight instead of artificial light a great deal more under the "war time" plan

Most business operations will continue on the same schedule of hours as at present—in other words, people who start work at 8 and finish at 4 will continue to do so It'll just be a bit darker when they arise, and there'll be more daylight after they quit And, of course, they'll just be out an hour's sleep when they wake up Monday morning—unless they go to bed an hour earlier than usual Sunday night.
